LEADING REPUBLICAN FOR DEMOCRAT

GREATER ROCKFORD BELIEVED BEEN SIGHTED

BUTLER PRAISES ACCEPTANCE SPEECH OF DEMO NOMINEE

PROMINENT REPUBLICAN SAYS STAND ON PARAMOUNT ISSUES SOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who a few days ago wrote a letter to the New York Times criticizing the stand of Herbert Hoover on prohibition and national defense, made the following statement to the Herald-Tribune on Governor Smith's speech of acceptance.

"The address of acceptance of Governor Smith is a statesmanlike document, well conceived, well phrased and admirably expressed It shows the governor at his best—and we New York Republicans know by long experience how [illegible] that is. His setting forth of the case of the Democratic party in this campaign is able and on a high plane. This can only be met by like or better arguments on a similarly high plane.

"Of course, the governor's viewpoint is a strictly partisan one. On all three paramount subjects of agriculture, foreign policy with respect to international peace, and prohibition, the governor speaks with no uncertain sound. No one can mistake what he means or what he will aim to do if elected. His treatment of prohibition is frank, constructive and forward-

SHOOTING WEDNESDAY NIGHT IN BUSINESS DISTRICT IS FATAL

ANDY AUTREY IS DEAD AND BELL WHITE, SR., CHARGED WITH SLAYING

Andy V. Autrey, aged 53 years, is dead, and Bell White, Sr., aged 50 years, is at liberty on bond in the sum of $3,000 on a formal complaint of murder, as a result of a shooting affair in front of the Vogue Cafe Wednesday night about 9:45 o'clock. Autrey was shot four times with a .44 calibre pistol. He was rushed to the Corsicana Hospital and Clinic and died a short time later while on the operating table without ever regaining consciousness or making a statement. White declined to make a statement in connection with the trouble.

Funeral services were conducted for Autrey Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from his residence, 1523 West Sixth avenue, with interment in Oakwood cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. P. Culver, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Soon after the shooting, White surrendered to city officers and later went to the Navarro county court house where he was formally charged by complaint with murder in Judge Sam B. Jordan's court. He was released on bond in the sum of $3,000 to await the action of the grand jury. Sureties on the bond are Arthur Levi, Pink Hayes and Bully Robinson.

White is reported to have emptied his pistol at Autrey at short range. One bullet apparently struck the street or sidewalk and ranged upward, entering an open window in the second floor of the building across the street. The bullet hit the metal ceiling of the Electric Studio and C. J. Reisin, proprietor, who was working at the time, later found the bullet on the floor.

One bullet took effect in the left breast near the heart, ranging through the body and emerging near the spine; another penetrated the right forearm about midway between the wrist and the elbow;

Meeting Called to Clear Up Political Situation Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Hopeful of clearing Lubbock county's muddled political situation, but planning to continue their campaign to make the party pledge cover support of all Democratic candidates, "regulars" composing the majority of places on the county executive committee will meet here Friday.

The gathering, called by C. B. Powell, acting executive committee chairman, will be the second within the week.

Powell's action in calling the committee grew out of the ousting Saturday of Frank E. Wheelrock, executive committee chairman, whose office was declared vacant by members of the committee after he had refused to support Gov. Alfred E. Smith for president.

Wheelrock declared that in his opinion the party pledge could not be interpreted as demanding support for the national nominees.

Though Powell was appointed in his place, Wheelrock has continued to administer his duties and has already had ballots for Saturday's run-off primary printed.

EXECUTIVE CHANGES REPORTED PENDING WESTERN SYSTEMS

HALE HOLDEN GOING WITH SOUTHERN PACIFIC FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. —(AP)—Forecasts of a new grouping of midwest and far western railway lines has followed announcement of several reported pending changes in executive positions on western systems.

The Associated Press has been informed that Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, will become chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific road this fall, to succeed Henry W. De Forest. Information came from members of the directorate of the Burlington and the Southern acific.

Appointment of Holden, president of the Burlington, which is controlled by the Northern acific and Great Northern railroads, to the Southern Pacific post is considered in financial circles as a means of averting disagreements between the Southern Pacific and the Western Pacific, La Salle street gossip said.

Paul Shroup, slated to succeed William Sproul, as head of the Southern Pacific, has been executed vice-president of that road since 1925. Sproul, who will be 70 years old this fall, must retire under the company's age rule, it was indicated.

He also stated that Judge Rufus Hardy, who served in the house with the candidate for several years would introduce the speaker.

A band concert by the Marlin and local bands will precede the speaking, the music starting at 7:30, while the address will start about 8 o'clock. The Marlin band will accompany a delegation from Connally's home town, which will

VARIED COMMENT HEARD ON ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR SMITH

DEMOCRATS, AS RULE PRAISE EFFORT, WHILE REPUBLICANS CRITICIZE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. —(AP)—Prominent democrats and republicans in many parts of the country, commenting on Governor Smith's acceptance speech, praised or found fault as their conception of government guided them, but the expressions were accompanied by a good deal of non-partisan opinion that he had stated frankly his position on the foremost issues of the campaign.

As was to be expected, those who praised without reservation were democrats and those who most readily found fault were republicans. But in the group comment there were democrats who refused to accept the nominee's views on prohibition and republicans who

SEEN SUNDAY MORNING BY MANY PEOPLE; BELIEVED HASSELL PLANE

COPENHAGEN, Denmark Aug. 23. —(AP)— The Greenland administration has received a message from the sheriff of South Greenland stating that an airplane believed to be the Greater Rockford manned by Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, was sighted Sunday morning along the southwest coast of Greenland.

The telegram received from the sheriff at 4:40 p. m., added that two motor boats would be sent out immediately to resume earch for the missing American airmen in view of the new information available.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—An Exchange disptach from Copenhagen says says the sheriff of South Greenland has informed Copenhagen that an airplane was seen flying over Fiskenaesset Sunday and thence turned to the east.

The message received by the Greenland administration was as follows:

"Machine reported absolutely without doubt from Fiskenaesset. The whole place, as well as Liechtenfels, observed the machine Sunday morning at 10:30 coming high from the north-northwest and descending over Fiskenaesset.

"The crew were clearly seen looking over the area through binoculars. Afterwards the machine turned eastwards. The Greenlanders statement is absolutely trustworthy and they described the sound of the engine and gave the national marks on the machine."

DEMOCRATIC STANDARD BEARER

Governor Alfred E. Smith, four times governor of the State of New York and nominated by the Democrats in convention at Houston as the standard bearer of the party during the 1928 campaign for the presidency, was officially notified of his nomination and made his acceptance speech at Albany late Wednesday.

LEADER DEMOCRATIC HOSTS DISAPPOINTED AT TURN IN EVENTS

CROWDS STAND IN RAIN TO HEAR GOVERNOR SMITH'S ACCEPTANCE

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. Aug. 23. —(AP)—Somewhat disappointed over the restricted manner in which his notification had to be conducted, but nevertheless happy over the way the crowd reacted to his acceptance speech, Governor Smith turned toward New York today to begin laying the foundation of his campaign for the presidency.

Arriving there late today, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee planned a visit to national committee hadquarers to talk over with party tentative plans for a stumping itinetary.

An uninterrupted rain, not heavy, forced a last minute scrapping of elaborate preparations made for Governor Smith's notification of the east steps of the capitol yesterday. It had to be held indoors—in the assembly chamber where the nominee began his legislative career, 25 years ago. While touched by the familiar scene, the governor thought sympathetically of the thousands outside on the lawns in the rain, and after running through the long outline of his stand on the issues of the day, including his advocacy of a modification of the dry laws, went out to the drenched but cheering crowds and thanked them from the bottom of his heart for standing by to the last to hear his message.

Crowds Jammed Chamber.

Surrounded by members of his family, his running mate, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and many party leaders and friends, the nominee delivered his acceptance speech to a crowd of only a few thousand that jammed the chamber. An emergency radio hook-up carried the message to the crowds outside and to every corner of the land.

JUDGE WHO DECIDED BABY CASE VISITED BY LITTLE LADY ON FIRST BIRTHDAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Miss Anastasia Smith, one-year old, might have had a good laugh for herself today had she been able to look back and comprehend all the trouble she caused twelve months ago, when the famous Smith baby case at Fairview Park Hospital attracted national attention to her.

Dolled up in a new white dress and a new pair of shoes, Miss Anastasia arrived in the courtroom of Common Pleas Judge Carl V. Weygandt. She gave the judge a knowing glance as though she had seen him somewhere before.

A year ago she was born in Fairview Park Hospital. Her mother called her "little son," and even the nurses noted in the hospital record that she was a boy. Then all of a sudden she became a girl.

The discovery just about ostracized her from the family of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, into which she had been born. In fact, Mrs. Smith insisted she was not her child at all. A mistake had been made, the grief-stricken mother protested; the nurses had mixed the babies; some one had her boy; and she had somebody else's girl.

"Baby Smith," though nameless, endured it all without a whimper while doctors and learned men talked of blood tests and what not. At the wee age of three weeks she was haled into a court room. Upon the bench sat the fatherly judge who listened to the whole story earnestly.

"And now," said Judge Weygandt to Mrs. Smith when he had heard it all, "there is scarcely any doubt that the mistake was made in the hospital record and not in the mixing of babies. The nurse who registered your child called her a boy. But all the evidence shows that she was a girl. Take her home and be good to her."

It was the same fatherly judge sitting upon the bench Miss Anastasia might have reflected when she entered the court room for the second time yesterday.

It was quite a surprise to be back—a birthday surprise. Judge Weygandt just wanted to give her a little party on this first memorable occasion since he is her official godfather. While the cameras clicked he presented her with a little blue book showing a bank deposit of $10 in her name.

Sam Smith, the proud parent, pulled Judge Weygandt aside and whispered:

"We know you were right. Anastasia was our baby all the time. Doesn't she look like her mother?"

SMITH MAKES HIS POSITION CLEAR ON MOOTED QUESTIONS

UNALTERABLY OPPOSED TO RETURN OF SALOON; ADVOCATES STATE CONTROL

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP)—With all the force at his command, Govefnor Smith Wednesday night told an expectant nation what he would do if elected president. In aggressive fashion, he accepted the democratic nomination with a speech which not only set forth his stand on prohibition, agriculture, foreign relations and other public questions, but accused the republican administration of a failure to keep faith with the people.

As millions listened-in by radio, the new leader of the democrats advocated modification of both the Volstead law and eighteenth amendment; reiterated that he would give the problem of controlling crop surpluses his immediate attention, if elected; assailed the administration's Nicaraguan and Mexican policy, and pledged himself to a "real" endeavor to outlaw war.

He also called for a reorganization of federal government activities on a business basis; declared that neither he nor the democratic party contemplated "sudden or drastic" changes in tariff schedules; reaffirmed his stand for public ownership and control of waterpower; promised a square deal for war veterans; stressed the need for inland waterway develop-

HOOVER CONFERS AGAIN WITH FARM LEADERS OF MID-WEST; MOVES TOWARD WASHINGTON

By JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Another round of conferences with farm leaders today closes Herbert Hoover's three-day visit to the great Mid-Western grain country.

Aided by personal contact with men who profess to interpret the viewpoint of the wheat, corn and other graingrowers, the Republican presidential candidate leaves late today for Washington There on Saturday in newly established headquarters he will take personal charge of his campaign.

Both in his public and private talks here Hoover has emphasized his belief that in seeking to relieve the agricultural industry, each of the dozen or more component parts must be treated separately. He has likewise stated his own purpose to have the federal farm board he has proposed, approach the problem from that basis.

Hoover has reiterated his statement in his notification speech that the board should have power to deal with all phases in the situation, present and future, and that it also should have such detailed information as could be obtained only in frequent conferences with leaders in each industry.

Between the time of exchanging views with farm leaders, the Republican candidate has received varied reports as to the outlook in the several grain growing states. He has been heartened by information from Kansas and Iowa, but a note of pessimism has run through that from the Northwestern states. Producers in that section who just now are beginning to market their wheat crop, are faced with sharply declining prices and political leaders say this unquestionably has had an effect.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, Republican Independent, who has advocated the equalization fee principle, definitely discarded by Hoover announced last night he would "no longer hesitate" to support the Hoover candidacy.

Beside the farm leaders, Hoover has conferred with a number of senators and representatives from several border as well as Western states. All of them made encouraging reports, especially senators Pine of Oklahoma and Sackett of Kentucky.

PROHIBITION HEAD DELIVERS ADDRESS AT ANTWERP MEET

SUGGESTS INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION TO PREVENT SMUGGLING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. —(AP)—In a speech prepared for delivery today before the international congress against alcoholism at Antwerp, Belgium, James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, declared general results of prohibition in the United States "thus far have been wholesome and beneficial."

The address, made public here by the treasury department, contained a suggestion that other countries cooperate with the United States to combat illicit international liquor traffic.

By such action, he declared, prohibition countries would be in a position to devote more attention to domestic combatitive measures and not expend great energy in meeting an "international illicit liquor traffic which uses the ports of many foreign nations and seeks the protection of the flags of those nations to cover illegal acts."

NATCHEZ, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A mob of 40 or 50 armed men early today stormed the Adams county jail in search of John Burke, negro who is charged with assaulting a 60-year-old white woman at Pine Ridge near here but failed to find the negro and their alleged leader, Cecil Collins, was arrested.

EL RENO, Okla., Aug. 23.—(AP)—R. F. Jones, Jr., 25, former athletic star at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, was sentenced to 15 years in the state penitentiary today when he pleaded guilty to a statutory charge growing out of an attack on a young woman here.

Both families are prominent in El Reno. The attack occurred on the night of August 10.

Oil Corporation Not So Hot; Name Was Misspelled

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—(AP)—It was the "Red Hat Oil Corporation of Texas" and not "Red Hot," chartered a few days ago by the secretary of state.

A letter to the secretary from the Fort Worth concern called attention today to the difference. Some of the published reports of the granting of the charter had it "Red Hot" on account of a typographical error in the second word.

MOTHER REFUSES TO BELIEVE SON KILLED MAN AS CONFESSED

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—While Houston police were attempting to gather facts which would closely connect Frank Joe Foltin with a Houston murder to which he confessed in Seattle, Wash., the youth's mother today remained steadfast in her belief he had not committed the murder but was without money and anxious to come home.

The mother, Mrs. Anna Foltin, and his brother, W. J. Foltin, who operate a dairy here, told officers that, in their opinion, the 22-year-old youth was "broke" and had taken this desperate means of getting back to Houston. They said they had not heard from him since March.

Meanwhile, Seattle officers were asked to get a full confession from the youth so it could be presented to the Harris county grand jury. Young Foltin told Seattle officers he shot and killed a man on Lamar street here "about March 1," in an attempted holdup. The only holdup killing about that time took place on the night of March 22 when William Leary, 28, railway clerk, was shot and killed by a robber at Clay and Louisiana streets, two blocks from Lamar.

THE CONSUMERS' DOLLAR.

Corsicana merchants are preparing to handle a big Fall business. The prospects of one of the largest cotton crops in the history of the county has caused the merchants to buy heavily. In their buying they have not lost sight of the consumers' viewpoint. Intelligent buying at close prices places the Corsicana merchants in a position to make the price interesting when the consumer puts his dollar in circulation.

In other words "The consumers' dollar will go a long way in Corsicana this Fall" and it will be the one desire of the local merchants to give just a little better values and better service than can be found in other nearby cities. They are going after the business along the legitimate lines of making it profitable and pleasant for the consumer to trade in Corsicana.

In keeping with this business getting plan of action the merchants of Corsicana have unanimously adopted the following resolutions which when read and analysed by the consumer should be an excellent guide in the selection of the community in which to get the best values for the dollar:

"First: That the merchants of Corsicana rededicate their energies to better merchandising to the end that the customer may have a wider choice and sounder values.

"Second: That we do not believe that any artificial prize plan can take the place of good values.

"Third: That our trade expansion activities throughout this area shall in no sense be directed against the community merchant in our neighboring towns, but shall be based on the policy "if you can't buy it at home—come to Corsicana."

Service and the greatest value for your dollar will be the basis on which the Corsicana merchants solicit your business. It is a sound business program and the buying public will, no doubt, be quick to realize the advantages offered by such a course.

KNOW TEXAS.

The greatest length of Texas, north to south, is 740 miles; the greatest breadth is 825 miles. It is further from Texarkana to El Paso than from Texarkana to Chicago.

There are almost 800 newspapers in Texas published in 530 cities and towns. Of these 106 or dailies.

A factory at Marathon, Texas, manufacturers rubfrom the guayule plant. This plant grows in the Big Bend section of the state.

Brewster is the largest county in Texas. It has an area of 3,739,680 acres. Rockwall is the smallest. It has 95,360 acres.

The consumers' dollar will have a greater value in Corsicana this fall than ever before. The local merchants bought with the idea in view of making the dollar go further and added to the exceptional values will be service not to be found elsewhere.

Service and the greatest value for your dollar is the slogan of the Corsicana merchants.

The consumers' dollar will go a long way in Corsicana this fall.

Travel broadens some. Others return as skinny as ever.

THE POT OF GOLD.

During the past year the gold stock of the United States has been diminished by more than half a billion dollars. So large a transference of precious metal might be expected to have important influence upon world economic affairs.

It was not so long ago that economic experts of Europe professed to be greatly worried because the United States was hoarding more than half the world's gold supply. They foresaw dire consequences for the United States itself. Surfeited and bloated, Uncle Sam could but succumb to those ills which ever have been fatal to rich democracies. A wild riot of speculation was predicted, orgies of spending and ultimate financial chaos.

On the other hand, these doleful prophets saw nothing but ruin in store for Europe, bled white by the exactions of Uncle Sam. More than the total income of the debtor nations was mortgaged, they untruthfuly urged, to the greed of America, for two generations to come.

Even in the first decade the possibility of such prophecies coming true vanishes. No serious inflation resulted in this country. The readjustments which have taken place were without serious shock. Production of useful commodities has increased but commodity prices have been well controlled. And instead of feverish uncertainty, prevailing confidence becomes more settled and well-grounded.

Meanwhile the return flow of gold tends to restore normal levels. European currencies are being stabilized and international trade promises to become more healthy and active. Maybe it makes a difference what kind of a fellow gets possession of the pot of gold.

UNINSURABLE.

America's wealth dwarfs that of any other country of the world, of this or any other past age. These facts are admitted by all, but few may know what is the greatest treasure house in the United States.

This treasure is guarded by day by two hundred watchmen and an intricate system of burglar alarms. At night its corridors are patrolled by scores of armed men on the alert for fire or thief. Every visitor in the building is under observation from the time he enters until his departure.

Strange to say no insurance is carried on this treasure of fabulous value, either against theft or fire.

But what and where is this treasure? Not the government treasury at Washington, nor any of the large metropolitan banks, nor the mint.

The treasure house is the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and its treasure is its priceless collection of art work. Authorities on art place the market value of the contents of this museum at five billions of dollars, but they could not be purchased from the museum at any price and neither could they be replaced if destroyed.

Because of the tremendous value of the museum building and its contents, and in view of the fact that money could not replace these works of art, the museum administration has reduced the danger of fire or theft to a minimum by human watchfulness and mechanical appliances. Human life and works of art alone cannot be restored by insurance.

The G. O. P. leaders probably see now how it might have all been obviated by merely making Mr. Sinclair their national campaign manager.

China isn't shipping us so much ancient eggs now, but the country still has enough for dramatic criticism.

You can tell the approach to Easy street by the easy marks that lie trimmed at the side of the road.

The line of least resistance leads downward and the line of most persistence leads upward.

It must be awful for a grouch to have nothing to kick about.

Corsicana merchants offer the best values.

MAKING LANGAGE PURE

The Clean Language League will get you if you don't watch your tongue.

Those tongues which under provocation or habit now and then let slip a naughty word are to be purified by eduction or legislation, the league's president predicts with admirable self-confidence, for up to this time it appears to be a one-man league.

Does the league realize what it is doing?

Has it occurred to it (or to him) how many people would be made virtually speechless if deprived of their "cuss words?"

Imagine the predicament in which the prohibition of swearing would place those hapless ,although now law-abiding, folks who should have the misfortune of pounding a finger while hanging pictures or laying carpets.

If the league carries out its zealous threat to "legislate," then the only hope for the motorist, who picks up two or three tacks and a blowout or two in a single afternoon's pleasure jaunt, is that all other motorists will prove themselves sympathetic "scofflaws" by setting up a counter-din of mingled cut-outs and horns.

One's curiosity prompts him to wonder if the league's official censor of speech is an authority on cussing. The anti-cussing amendment will of necessity have to define profanity, as well as catalog the endless number of profane adjectives, and congressmen might take it as a reflection upon their own purity of speech if the language reformers left them the drafting of the impending law. In view of the fact that the pirates who once sailed the bounding main have been hanged or are practicing legalized freebootery ashore, some difficulty may be encountered in finding someone sufficiently equipped to qualify as framer of the proposed statute. Of course a "trooper" might do in a pinch.

Texas will vote democratic. The November election will bear out this statement. Those fighting the national democratic ticket in this state are greatly in the minority. They make much noise but their voting strength is small. It will be many years, if ever, before Texas is taken out of the Democratic column.

Don't take anything for granted in an election. The only way to insure the election of your favorite candidate is to give him a majority of the votes cast and to do this all must vote. Keep your poll tax receipt handy and go to the polls Saturday.

SEVEN WOMEN AND FIVE MEN CHARGED WITH DEATH PLOTS

NUN IS ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN LEADER AND INSTIGATOR OF CONSPIRACIES

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22. (AP)—Seven women and five men, all Catholics, were under arrest today accused of having conspired to kill President Plutarco Elias Calles as well as the late President-elect General Alvaro Obregon.

Mother Superior Concepcion Acebeda De La Llata, under custody since the slaying of General Obregon in July, is charged with having been the chief plotter. The police declare the conspirators planned to kill the two officials last April by pricking them with a poisoned pin at a dance which they attended in the town of Celaya.

This plan, as well as a later plot to bomb a bridge near Celaya over which Obregon and Calles were to pass, was abandoned as impracticable, it is alleged, but the conspirators continued their efforts and succeeded in slaying General Obregon.

Law Student Balked.

The police attribute to Rafael Enriquez Vidal, a 22-year-old law student who is one of those arrested, the statement that he was invited to join the group, being promised entrance to heaven if he should become one of the "martyrs."

In a signed statement Chief of Police Antonio Rios Zertuche said that Enriquez and others among those under arrest made confessions. Enriquez, he declared, told of Mother Concepcion showing him pictures of young men executed for religious activities and expressing determination to organize another group of "martyrs."

The police statement says she told him the Pope would canonize all those who died in behalf of the Church, not believing himself timber for a saint, Enriquez, the statement says, declined to join the group.

Mother Concepcion is charged with having furnished a bottle of poison for the purpose.

Jose Leon Toral, Obregon's assassin, and Manuel Trejo, who is alleged to have furnished Leon Toral with the pistol that he used in slaying the president-elect, are declared to have been members of the "martyrs" group.

Those under arrest are: Senorita Mazano, Margarita Rubio, Leonora Rubio, Pledad Rangel, Senora Esperanza De Cisneros, Ana Maria Cisneros, Margarita Pacheco, Enriquez Vidal, Castro Balda, Edduardo Zozalla y Collada, Eulogio Gonzales Arzona and Fernando Amor y Villal Pando.

TWO ROBBERS FLEE BEFORE ATTACK OF HOUSTON WOMAN

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)— Two robbers who fled before the frenzied attack of a Houston woman when they attempted to rob her and her husband, were sought by police today.

The robbers invaded the home of S. B. Ehrenwerth, prominent Houston attorney, held a negro woman servant captive and awaited the return of Mr. and Mrs. Ehrenwerth last night.

When the intended victims entered the rear door the negro servant screamed a warning at them. The robbers jumped forward, flourishing their guns, and Mrs. Ehrenwerth attacked one of them with such ferocity that he fled. The other pointed his gun at Ehrenwerth, who dropped to the ground just as two bullets whistled past his head. Slugging Ehrenwerth with the butt of his pistol, the second man raced away.

AUTHORITIES BEXAR COUNTY WILL FIGHT SENTENCE CHANGE

ALLEGED ATTACKERS HIGH SCHOOL GIRL MAY HAVE SENTENCES COMMUTED

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 22. —(AP)—Bexar county authorities have taken action to fight commutation of the death sentences of Esiquiel Servina and Clementa Rodiquez, convicted of criminal assault on a Brackenridge high school girl, District Attorney Lamar Lamar Seeligson announced.

The men are sentenced to die in the electric chair at Huntsville before dawn September 7. Date for their execution has been set several times, but each time they have been saved by reprieves issued by Governor Moody.

The last reprieves came late Monday when Governor Moody allowed clemency on application of Mexican consular agents here.

Seeligson addressed a letter to Governor Dan Moody protesting against the granting of a petition submitted to him on behalf of Mexican Consul General Enrique Santibanez and the Mexican ambassador to the United States, requesting that the death sentences imposed on the two men be commuted to life imprisonment.

"In event the governor should grant the request of the Mexican authorities," Seeligson said, "I will go before the 37th district court, in which the two men were convicted, and ask that a bench warrant be issued to bring them back to San Antonio to stand trial on other capital charges still pending against them here."

Seeligson said each of the men is under indictment on two other charges of criminal assault and five charges of robbery by assault with firearms. They are charged with being members of a band who assaulted four high school girls during a series of holdups early in 1927.

Rodriguez entered a plea of guilty to the charge of criminal assault on which he was convicted, and was given the death sentence July 5, 1927. Servina entered a plea of not guilty to the charge but was convicted and given the death sentence July 8, 1927.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY PRESS MOVES INTO IMPROVED QUARTERS

DEPARTMENT WAS SMALL, MAKESHIFT AFFAIR WHEN ORGANIZED IN 1914

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—(Spl.)—After fourteen years of service housed in the dingy confines of a crowded wooden shack, the press at the University of Texas has at last been moved into commodious and adequate quarters in the old brick power building, and Sunday's issue of the Summer Texan, student newspaper, marked the formal opening of the new printing shop and newspaper office.

When the press was first organized at the University in 1914, it was a small make-shift affair, comprised of two small presses, one linotype machine and a very limited supply of type and other equipment. Prior to that time, downtown print shops had been relied upon for all University work, including the printing of the Texan, and many are the tales among "old timers" of the Texan staff about the rush and mix-ups entailed in getting last minute copy from the campus to the printing office.

In 1918, the plant was taken from the control of the journalism department and made into a separate department under the direction of A. C. Wright, who still serves as manager. Journeymen and printers were employed, and the press was used for all University printing. By this time the value of the plant was estimated at $15,000, an increase of $5,000 over its first inventory. Only five workmen were employed, and the weekly payroll was approximately $200.

At the present time the press is doing a business of $69,000 a year, an increase of over 350 per cent in the last ten years. Three linotype machines a Duplex news press, two small job presses and bookbinding equipment now belong to the plant, while a fourth linotype machine will be installed soon. A feature of the new shop of which Manager Wright is justly proud, is the new $3,000 freight elevator which has recently been installed.

Twenty-four men are now employed in the plant, of whom seven are University students. Although owing to the fact that the press is state property, it is not a strictly "closed shop," all the workers belong to typographical, pressmen's or bookbinders' unions.

California Officers Seek Chinese Slayer

FAIRFIELD, Cal., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Many residents of Solano and Napa counties were practically in a state of siege in their homes today while posses searched for Loy Yeung, Chinese, who yesterday murdered ten of his countrymen on a ranch near here. Yeung fled in an automobile, after running amuck with a hatchet and rifle.

Police said Loy Yeung had a reputation as a killer, and had boasted of taking three lives in a Tong war. Officers could find no motive for the killings.

ENGINEERS WORKING ON PLAN TO CHANGE NUECES RIVER BED

WOULD PASS AROUND HOLE IN RIVER THAT SENDS MUCH WATER AWAY

SAN ANTONIO. Aug. 23.—(AP)—Engineers are considering curious engineering projects which would divert the Nueces river across most of Uvalde county in order to irrigate lands near La Pryor which already are on the Nueces river. It is thought that the project might also diminish San Antonio's supply of artesian water.

The Balcones fault, a great crack across the face of the state, is responsible for the situation. Most of the water of the Nueces now plunges into a great hole in the ground and goes no man knows where. Several other streams which cross the fault do the same thing.

The hole in the bottom of the Nueces river is so great that a five-foot rise in the river at Laguna all disappears in a boiling whirlpool as the river crosses the fault. Consequently the river is too low at La Pryor to make a gravity system possible.

Engineers propose to change the river so that it will not flow into the fault and bring it to the vicinity of La Pryor, where it would be diverted into a storage reservoir big enough to irrigate the 33,000 acres in the project.

This brings up the question of what would happen to the hole in the river bed, once it was deprived of the stream that now fills it. Engineers believe that the water follows the fault probably 2,000 feet underground to create the underground water supplies that San Antonio and New Braunfels now enjoy.

GOVERNOR SMITH SAYS NO EXTENDED CAMPAIGN PLANNED

SPIKED REPORTS OF PLANS TO MAKE TWENTY SET SPEECHES IN RACE

ALBANY, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Governor Smith today spiked reports that he planned to make about twenty set speeches during his campaign for the presidency and that he intended to launch his drive sometime in September with a trip across the continnent for an initial address in Oregon.

"I don't know a thing about it," he told newspapermen at his daily conference just before leaving his office at the capitol to test out the radio on the east steps where he will deliver his acceptance speech tomorrow evening.

Asked if he had observed any reaction to his reply to William Allen White's attack against his record as an assemblyman, the governor said:

"None, except what came in this morning ,and I haven't seen them yet."

He said he thought his answer "would close up the whole matter."

Shortly afterward the governor gave the radio a trial, and called for his automobile to take him across th eborder into Massachusetts where he planned some golf at Stockbridge with Norman H. Davis, under secretary of state and assistant secretary of the treasury in the Wilson cabinet.

MAN LOST FROM HIS FAMILY EIGHT YEARS IS FOUND AT LAST

HOUSTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Rural Ricketts of Cambridge, Mass., lost from his family in Texas for 8 years and believed to be dead, has been located as a result of the filing of condemnation proceedings by the Houston school board against property owned by the Ricketts estate and the placing of an advertisement with United States postal authorities by Mrs. Thelma Hodges of Dallas, a sister.

A postal clerk at Cambridge, who knew Rural Ricketts saw the postal advertisement and notified him. The lost brother has been reunited with his family at Houston and settlement of property interests made. Letters sent by the Ricketts family to Rural Ricketts and letters by the latter to members of his family had been returned repeatedly, due to changes in residence by all parties concerned.

The youth was brought to a Denton hospital, where a search of overalls which he was wearing revealed nothing that might identify him.

DESOLATION OVER HAITI WIDESPREAD AFTER HURRICANE

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Desolation was widespread today over southern Haiti, where a tropical storm last week wrecked towns, killed 200 persons and left 10,000 homeless.

Eighty per cent of the buildings in Grand Boucan and Petit Trou were demolished.

The hurricane first hurled itself over an area twenty miles wide, from Cavaillon to St. Louis and then to Aquin. It spread fanwise northeast and northwest across the Peninsula, covering an area more than 70 miles wide on the north coast from Mirragane to Jeremie.

The inundation in most of the towns ranged from eight to twenty feet in depth.

Officers of the United States naval tug Woodcock, which returned yesterday after a second relief trip to the stricken area, said, the material loss would exceed $1,000,000.

American and Syrian colonies of Port-Au-Prince, together with the municipality, are raising a relief fund.

ARCHER CITY, Aug. 21.—(AP)—After 58 witnesses had been called to the stand in support of allegations that George Duckett, charged with murder, could not receive an impartial trial here, the defendant was granted a change of venue by District Judge E. G. Thornton today.

Duckett, accused of slaying Charlie McDaniel, pioneer cattleman, during an alleged attempt to rob the First State Bank at Dundee, July 18, will be tried in the January term of district court in Baylor county.

Prosecuting attorneys announced they would not contest transfer of the case.

FIFTY THOUSAND MEMBERS CATHOLIC ORDERS PARADE IN CLEVELAND K. C. MEET

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—(AP)—With more than 50,000 members of Cleveland Catholic orders parading through Cleveland, the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus reached its most eventful day of its convention today.

While plans were worked out for today's gala program, national officers and directors held informal conferences yesterday to consider problems and policies to be decided at the present convention.

Two questions—the situation in Mexico and alleged circulation of a spurious Knights of Columbus "oath"—were expected to cause the most discussion.

Martin H. Carmody, Supreme Knight, said expulsion of priests and nuns from Mexico constitutes a problem in which the Knights of Columbus feel very deeply. He announced the convention would reaffirm the stand taken at the 1928 convention in Philadelphia, protesting to the United States government the expulsion of Catholics from Mexico.

Carmody also announced that the Knights, who number 700,000 members in the country, would not participate in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

"The Knights of Columbus positively will not endorse Governor Alfred E. Smith or any other candidate for any other office," Carmody said, "ours is a scrictly non-partisan organization. Our membership is recruited from men with every political faith."

OBJECT TO PLACING NAMES OF EXECUTED NEGROES ON TABLET

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—State Commander Walton D. Hood of the American Legion declared here today that names of Texas negro World War soldiers executed in connection with the Houston camp race riot will not go on the state memorial tablet to be erected here in commemoration of Texas' dead in the war, if he has anything to do with it.

The names were included in a list of about 5,000 Texans furnished the memorial tablet committee, of which Hood is a member, by the adjutant general's department.

The committee, headed by Gov. Moody, met today to consider the letting of a contract for the tablet, for which the 40th legislature appropriated $5,000.

Adjutant General R. L. Robertson told Hood that names of the Texas negroes executed are marked on the list, which includes all persons losing their lives in any manner during war service.

The tablet will be erected at Texas University Memorial Stadium.

KERENS PLANNING FOR GOOD ROADS IN EASTERN NAVARRO

AFTER DISCUSSION CITIZENS AGREE TO ABIDE BY COMMITTEE PLANS

KERENS, Aug. 23.—(Sp)—Citizens of Kerens turned out well to a mass meeting last Friday night to consider a program for road development in the local road district. About sixty prominent citizens of the community were present. After much discussion of plans and programs it was found that the group was about evenly divided by sponsoring as many plans. Every one realized the necessity for compromise; so the most progressive step taken in the direction of good road development for some time was taken by the people there when they practically unanimously stood to foster the program the road committee would put up as the most feasible program.

To Vote Bonds.

The four plans advocated at the meeting were as follows: First to vote bonds to the extent of $50,000 to bring Highway No. 31 through Kerens and this program was advocated by about one fourth of the group present. Second to build highway No. 31 and tie it up so that the highway commission would have to designate and build what is known as the Roger Q. Mills highway from Wild Cat Ferry to Kerens. Third to vote bonds to build highway 31 and to build a road north and south from the district line above Bazette to Kerens on to Rural Shade thence to intersect the highway from Corsicana to Palestine, and also tap the same road from Round Prairie. Fourth to vote bonds to build east and west roads, north and south roads and to build a road through Elm Flat to the Anderson Bridge.

Taxes on road bonds outstanding on each of these proposed issues would be from 15 cents on the first to $1.00 on the last with ranges in between according to the amount of construction the plan calls for. No plan contemplated the expenditure to cost more than a dollar tax for all road bonds.

Concrete Roads Recommended

No temporary roads of the nature of gravel or other quick wearing surfaces are contemplated in any of these plans. Every road would be built of concrete to last easily the life of the bonds and probably longer. Where the state is to cooperate 18 foot roads of concrete will be built but where the money from local funds are to be used altogether nine foot concrete slabs will be used. There is practically no upkeep on roads so constructed and engineers and contractors are recommending that type of construction altogether now. This is upon the advice of Mr. F. P. McElwrath, road contractor of Corsicana.

To Sponsor Petition.

As a result of the mass meeting Friday night the Chamber of Commerce got busy canvassing the opinion of the people of the district and at a directors meeting Tuesday afternoon committed themselves to a plan for road development and by virtue of the stand taken by the people at the mass meeting it appears to be the will of the majority of the people here that such a plan be brought before the voters of the district for their approval.

Bank Messengers Robbed of $19,000 By Chicago Bandits

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Five Robbers held up two bank messengers in a taxicab today, robbing them of $19,000 in cash and negotiable papers, as the messengers were transferring the money from the Service State bank.

Armed with pistols and rifles, the five robbers riding in a blue sedan drove alongside the taxicab and crowded it to the curb. Covering the messengers and the cab driver, the robbers grabbed up the satchel containing the money and speeded away.

The messengers were taking the money to the Union Trust company.

SPECIAL AGENT OF GOVERNMENT TO AID NAVARRO FARMERS

NAVARRO AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES WILL GET COTTON PICKERS

R. F. Nelson ,special agent of the Farm Labor Division of the U. S. Employment Service, who has been on duty at Dallas, has been instructed to report for duty at the Corsicana chamber of commerce to help Navarro and surrounding counties to obtain cotton pickers, it was announced at the chamber of commerce Wednesday morning.

Seeking to give real service to farmers in getting a sufficient number of dependable cotton pickers, the directors of the chamber of commerce recently took steps to obtain, if possible, a special representative from the Farm Labor division of the government. This special representative to serve East Central Texas from Corsicana has been assured by C. W. Woodman, assistant director of the Employment Service in Texas.

The systematic direction of cotton pickers from South Texas points northward into Oklahoma has been developed along orderly and satisfactory lines to both pickers and farmers within the past few years largely through the efforts of Mr. Woodman's office, and the co-operation of Texas chambers of commerce. The Farm Labor division has representatives in various parts of the Texas cotton belt, these working in close harmony with each other and chambers of commerce and greatly help the cotton picker situation.

Ask Farmers To List Needs.

Farmers needing cotton pickers are asked to get in touch immediately with the Corsicana chamber of commerce, giving information as to how many pickers will be needed, whether families or single pickers will be used and what is available in the way of housing accommodations. With the assistance of Mr. Nelson and the Employment Service it is hoped to fill these requests.

"If we could get the farmers to place their orders with chambers of commerce every year," says Assistant Director Woodman in his letter Wednesday, "and could be guided by the information that the chambers of commerce can secure through the Farm Labor division, many hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved each year, much cotton could be saved, and less time lost on the part of the picker.

"For your information will advise that what we call the Corpus Christi section, weather permitting, will be practically completed by the first of September. This should give us a release of at least thirty to thirty-five thousand pickers. Every effort wil be made to direct them into East and Central Texas," assured Mr. Woodman.

Service Is Free.

It should be understod by the farmers that the service offered by the Farm Labor division and the chamber of commerce is absolutely free to both farmers and pickers, and that every effort is made to handle all requests in a spirit of fairness.

Requests which have already been coming into the chamber from both pickers and farmers have indicated the need of establishing a temporary cotton picking bureau in the local chamber and it is believed that this special service to farmers will be appreciated. The chamber will co-operate with the rural bankers of the county in keeping check on the community demands.

Under the direction of Henry Ross, secretary of the Kerens chamber of commerce, a large number of pickers have already been placed in the cast end of the county.

RELIGIOUS QUESTION IMPORTANT SUBJECT BEFORE K. OF C.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The religious question in Mexico was one of the most important problems before today's business sessions of the convention of the Knights of Columbus as a result of the annual report by Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody, Grand Rapids, Mich. Carmody protested against "unfortunate and distressing circumstances of Catholics generally in Mexico."

In the hope of obtaining a change of attitude in Mexico toward the Catholic church, Carmody suggested that the United States government be asked to bring "moral pressure and influence" to bear upon its Southern neighbor. His report was up for consideration before the convention today.

The head of the order said that while the government would not be asked to intervene south of the Rio Grande, pressure could be brought to bear that "would force in Mexico a change of policy or ostracize her from recognition and association by the family of nations."

M'MILLAN NOT OPTIMISTIC OVER PROSPECTS FOR RESCUE OF GREATER ROCKFORD CREW

By COMMANDER DONALD B. MacMILLAN, Arctic Exporer

MAIN, Labrador, Aug. 23. —(AP)—(By radio to the Associated Press) —A continued search for Bert-Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm flyers, is being made by the cruiser Marion along the Labrador coast. The only other ship now in the immediate vicinity is the Hudson Bay company's Bay Kain. Others, however, are reported en route from various adjacent harbors and countries.

If the Sweden-bound flyers are fortunate enough to be on land, they may find Eskimos who are scattered along the entire coast catching cod fish. On the other hand, if Hassell and Cramer came down on water, their safety is doubtful, unless they had a rubber boat and a map of the location of Moravion station.

We of the Rawson-Field Museum expedition expect to return south in a few days, with fair weather, and will probably dock at Wiscasset, Maine.

We have never heard the letter "R" from the Greater Rockford's radio, although we have been in frequent touch with Prof. W. H. Hoebs' station at Mt. Evans, Greenland, base of the Greater Rockford's scheduled second stop. (The letter "R" was the last signal heard from the flyers last Sunday morning, and designated them as near Cape Chidley).

With the temperature about 45 degrees above zero, there is very little game on the outer islands.

All birds are out of their nests and it is far too early for seals or polar bear, due to a lack of drift ice.

Caribou and Blackshear, however, are on inner bays and there is plenty of trout.

The United States coast guard boat under Lieutenant Commander Edward H. Smith is in the vicinity now.

Heavy Gale Blowing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. —(AP)— The coast guard cutter Marion, searching for the missing fliers, Bert Hassell, and Parker Cramer, reported to headquarters tonight that at noon it was hove to in a "strong southerly gale," thirty miles east of Resolutoin Island, and expressed opinion there was "no chance of Hassell being alive now if on the water in this vicinity."

The message said the cutter tomorrow would continue the search to the southward along the Labrador current.

COTTON GRADE AND STAPLE LENGTH TO BE CHECKED UPON

Earl L. Struwe of Palestine, field representative of the U. S. department of agriculture, has been making a tour of his district and making arrangements with gins, in the different communities to secure samples of the cotton ginned in order that the government can definitely ascertain just the grade, staple length, and tenderability of the cotton ginned in this section. The same efforts are being made in all the cotton growing states.

The work is conducted by the bureau of agricultural economics United States department of agriculture, through its division of cotton marketing.

The samples secured from the gins will be shipped to the field office, which is Dallas for this section, to be examined and classed. Field men have been selected to maintain contact with ginners and cotton growers and approximately 1500 gins will secure the samples throughout the cotton belt. Mr. Struwe stated that five gins in Navarro county had agreed to co-operate with the department of agriculture in this work.

Samples will be submitted daily throughout the ginning season to the division headquarters and the reports will be transmitted to Washington and reports will be issued monthly on the grade, staple length, and tenderability from that city. The reports will start in October and close in April.

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN TELLS HOW TO VOTE PROPERLY

In an effort to aid the voters in the approaching primary election Saturday, C. H. DeLafosse, county democratic chairman, has outlined a few points calculated to aid the voter and enlighten them as to the manner of voting and also to aid in the speeding up of the balloting.

Following is the statement issued Tuesday morning by Mr. De Lafossee:

"Instruction to voters in the primary.

"1. Your vote by marking out completely all names of persons on ticket for whom you do not wish to vote. Leave on the ticket under each office only the name of the party for whom you desire to vote.

"2. The ballot will have written on it the name of the presiding judge of election. After preparing your ballot, fold it so that his name will appear on the outside.

"3. Do not carry into the polls with you any marked ticket or memoranda as to whom you wish to vote for. Find out before you go into the polls.

"4. If you need assistance in the preparation of your ballot, this will be given by the election judges, and a heavy fine is imposed on any judge or clerk, who by word, sign or token indicates how he desires you to vote.

"5. Carry your poll tax receipt to the polls with you. This is essential. You cannot vote without your poll tax receipts unless you swear they are "lost or misplaced." If your poll tax receipt is not lost or misplaced, and yet you make this affadivit you are guilty of false swearing.

"6. Any voter residing in Corsicana who has changed his residence, must see to it that his name or her name is transferred to the new precinct or ward at least four days before the election. Do not forget this.

"7. In the City of Corsicana, no one can vote unless his or her name appears on the poll tax list furnished the election judges. If your name isn't on the list, it is not the fault of the election judges.

"8. Do not loiter or electioneer while the polls are open within 100 feet of the polls. A compliance with these suggestions, will greatly assist the election officers and will help them and you in having your vote properly counted and reported. If in doubt about your right to vote, call the undersigned and information will be gladly furnished.

"C. H. DeLafosse, chairman, Navarro county democratic executive committee. Office rooms 1 and 2 Daily Sun building, phone 2001.

TOM CONNALLY ATTACKS RECORD EARLE MAYFIELD

CHARGES PRESENT SENATOR WITH CHILDISHLY DISTORTING STATEMENTS

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Congressman Tom Connally of Marlin was in San Antonio today for his last address but two in his campaign for the senate, after having predicted in a speech here last night that he would be victor in the Saturday run off against Earle B. Mayfield, incumbent, "by an overwhelming majority."

"Let's be done with horse play and get the campaign on a real senatorial basis," Connally said. "Nothing so much reveals the capacities and the capabilities of a man as his understanding. Yet Earle Mayfield, just yesterday, distorted still another of my statements in a childish manner.

"I have told of his record innumerable times, and the Mayfield record is far from impervious. I stated that our senior senator, Morris Sheppard, had served Texas 15 years and missed 14 roll calls, and that our junior senator, Earle Mayfield, had been in office five years and missed over 200 roll calls. Yet Mayfield distorts this, claiming that I said he had missed 200 sessions of the senate when in the entire life of the body it has been in session but 70 times. This is in line with much of the rest of the Mayfield campaign material.

"Mr. Mayfield is a candidate of the special interests. I am a candidate of the people of this great state, who do not believe in being bossed or controlled by a few special interests."

AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE PROMISED BY HOOVER LAST NIGHT IN IOWA ADDRESS

WEST BRANCH, Iowa, Aug. 22. —(AP)—An agricultural conference in which Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and other farm leaders will be asked to participate in the search for a common ground upon which to act for farm relief was proposed here Tuesday by Herbert Hoover in his homecoming address in the heart of the corn belt.

"In formulating recommendations for legislation to carry out the proposals of the party," the Republican presidential candidate said "I trust that we may have the full assistance of the leaders of agricultural thought. I am not insensible to the value of the study which sincere farm leaders have given to this question of farm legislation. They have all contributed to the realization that the problem must be solved. They will be invited into conference. Outstanding farmers such as Governor Lowden will be asked to join in the search for common ground upon which we can act."

Calling of such a conference naturally is predicated upon Hoover's election, but the nominee did not indicate whether it would be his purpose to call it before or after his inauguration. His Democratic opponent has announced that should he be elected he would invite farm leaders in immediately after Nov. 6.

Former Governor Lowden is the foremost exponent of the equalization fee plan of farm relief, and after the republican convention at Kansas City rejected that plan he announced his withdrawal from the race for the nomination which went to Hoover on the first ballot.

In his address here the G. O. P. standard bearer reiterated the declaration made in his acceptance speech that the republican platform for farm relief did not contemplate either putting the government into control of the business of agriculture or subsidizing prices of farm products by paying the losses thereon from the federal treasury or by a tax or fee imposed on the farmer.

"We propose with governmental assistance and an initial advance of capital," he added, "to enable the agricultural industry to reach a stature of modern business operations by which the farmer will attain his independence and maintain his individuality."

Expanding his previous statement regarding development of the Mississippi and building of a Great Lakes to the Atlantic waterway as a means of furnishing lower freight rates on farm produce going to the seaboard, Hoover said engineers had recommended the St. Lawrence route to the Atlantic, but that if negotiations with Canada for the construction of this route failed, alternative routes would be considered. "In any event, completion of this great system of barge lines on rivers and connecting the lakes with the gulf and of opening a shipway from the lakes to the sea," he continued, "will make an effective transportation system 12,000 miles in length penetrating twenty mid-west states. And this means more than the mere saving upon the actual goods shipped on these routes. If part of your crops were to move to market at a seven to ten cent saving per bushel, the buyer's competitive bidding for this portion of the crop will force upward the price of the whole crop."

SHIPPERS BEING HEARD ON APPLICATION OF RAILROADS TO CHANGE RATES IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Whether the state railroad commission will consider Texas railroads' application to abolish existing rules and regulations governing administration of freight rates, remained to be decided today.

The proposal was embodied in the railroads' petition, being heard by the commission, for revision of state freight rates to conform to the interestate rates adopted for the southwest, effective July 14, by the interstate commerce commission.

In behalf of shippers, the Texas Industrial Traffic league, Dallas, through F. A. Leffingwell, secretary-treasurer, moved yesterday to dismiss that part of the railroads' application that would do away with currently applicable rules, including the Moot rule seven, which provides that in "all cases where the current class rates are lower that the rates named in commodity tariffs adopted or approved by this commission, such class rates shall govern."

Shippers' testimony was to be taken up some time today, at the third day's session opening at 10 a. m.

Representatives of sugar and coffee shipping interests took the stand late yesterday and agreed to the new rates, which the rail roads have testified will, " on the whole," reduce the freight rate level in Texas. Under agreement of the sugar interests of Suglarland and Texas City, certain special rates now in effect in the Texas Gulf coast section will remain in effect, but the 36,000 pound carload minimum on sugar will be eliminated in favor of the 60,000 pound minimum.

Shippers with plants just west of Dallas are objecting to proposed cancellation of Dallas rates as maxima to other points in Texas, as embodied in the railroads' application, which would substitute a straight milage scale for the common point blanket rate scale now in effect.

The latter scale has been in effect in Texas for more than 50 years. Under it, products might be shipped on a mileage rate up a maximum distance, varying with the nature of the product.

Then the rate for the maximum distance would hold for all additional distances within what is known as common point territory. For instance, crude pertoleum products reach a maximum rate of 39 1-2 cents a hundred pounds at 120 miles.

PLANS ARE COMPLETE FOR CONNALLY RALLY FRIDAY EVENING

Plans for the final "Tom Connally for Senator" rally were rapidly taking final shape Wednesday under the direction of C. L. Jester, general chairman of the arrangements, and A. A. Allison, member of the committee, which will be held on the courthouse lawn Friday night when the former Marlin congressman will deliver the last speech of before the second primary on Saturday.

Arrangements have been made for 1,000 extra seats to be placed on the speaking site, and loud speakers will be placed at advantageous positions so that the entire crowd will be able to hear the address. The speech will also be broadcast over station WBAP.

Short talks by representatives of the numerous visiting delegations will precede the main address of the evening. Among the speakers will be District Attorney Cecil Bass of Falls county, Judge James E. Bradley of Groesbeck, Joe Woods of Teague, Fountain Kirby of Groesbeck and several others from Limestone, Freestone and Navarro counties.

Dr. N. D. Buie, brother-in-law of Representative Connally and prominent Marlin surgeon, will head a delegation from Marlin to Corsicana which will be accompanied by the Marlin Band. The party expected to visit Groesbeck at 2 o'clock Friday, and after a short concert and parade, move on to Mexia joined by the Groesbeck delegation. Wortham will be visited at 4 o'clock and the entire party is expected to arrive in Corsicana about 6 o'clock and stage a big parade and band concert.

A band concert will be given at the courthouse about 30 minutes before the speaking Friday night.

Names of the presiding officers, local speakers, and the reception committee will be named at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Arnett of Cryer Creek were visitors in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. W. B. Taylor, superintendent of the County Hospital, and her daughter, Elizabeth, returned Monday from a visit to Brownwood and other points.

LOCATION SURVEY ON HIGHWAY NO. 75 NOW GOING FORWARD

WORK IS IN PROGRESS BETWEEN STREETMAN AND RICHLAND AT PRESENT

Work is now under way on the location survey on national highway No. 75, between Streetman and Richland, according to an announcement made Tuesday by engineers in charge. This is the first work on this stretch of road and a statement recently was made that this would be the first section of the highway to be worked on by the state highway engineers. Later the work will extend toward Corsicana. It has been intimated on several occasion that the highway No. 75 north from Corsicana toward Ellis county and Dallas would in all probability be the last road to be considered.

Highway No. 75 extends through Navarro county, north and south. The designation recently was made by the state highway department east of the H. & T. C. R. R. tracks, and will pass through Corsicana east of the main business section.

F. P. McElwrath, contractor, is nearing the completion of the Corsicana-State Orphan's Home road, connecting with the Drane lateral at Drane and extending to the western city limits on West Second avenue.

COTTON DAMAGED LAST WEEK IN MANY SECTIONS COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)— Crop and weather conditions for the week ended yesterday as summarized by the department of agriculture, says that in most of the cotton belt the week was rather warm and rainfall irregular. With heavy to excessive amounts in much of the eastern portion and very little in the western district.

In the Carolinas and Georgia the storm did considerable damage by flooding low lands and the continued wetness was generally favorable for weevil activities, especially in Georgia, where shedding has greatly increased and bolls are rotting. In Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi the progress of the crop varied considerably, ranging from deterioration in parts of Alabama to good in much of Tennessee.

In Louisiana cotton deteriorated badly in localities, especially in the northwest. In Arkansas progress was very good except in some Central-Eastern and Southern sections. In Oklahoma the general condition is spotted, ranging from poor to very good, depending largely on insect infestation. In Texas progress was spotted ranging from poor in the drier sections of the West-Central and Southern parts, to very good in much of the North.

A Lesson In Citizenship Enforced By An Earthquake

Two Preachers, Imprisoned For Their Gospel, Freed By a Miracle, Save Their Jailer, But Give the Magistrates A Sharp Awakening As to Citizen Rights—A Modern Parallel.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

This melodramatic old story of Paul and Silas in prison has peculiar interest for me, because it was my privilege, while traveling in the same Macedonia, in 1919, as correspondent of "The New York Herald,' 'to emulate Paul's example and teach the Greek officials a stern and humiliating lesson, forcing them to release instantly three American Board missionaries whom they had unjustly arrested. Before the incident was closed, and after the commanding general and local governor had apologized to the missionaries, King Alexander himself went over to Salonika to apologize in person in behalf of the Greek nation.

Some minds are muddled on this point of citizenship rights. One of my freed missionary friends at Salonika was for swallowing all the affronts that had been offered him, "for the sake of peace." But it is a poor and short peace that is secured by this route. This mistaken idea of Christian meekness has been responsible for endless humiliation for the Christian Church, at the hands of politicians and business interests. It has been long deemed safe to flout the Christian conscience. "It's only the church people who are objecting," say the politicians, on the prohibition question. "The Church folk are a negligible quantity," once remarked an eminent publicist to me in Washington.

Paul's stern sense of manhood rights, and of citizenship rights, has not always marked the conduct of Christians in relation to public affairs. Thus, as ever, a duty neglected has meant a power surrendered, Paul was not less a Roman because he was first of all a Christian. But he was first a Christian; wherein he differs from some of us, who are first of all members of some political party or commercial organization or social group.

Bad For Business.

Religion is good for good business but bad for bad business. Paul's preaching in Philippi was good—the superlative good—for a group of converts, whom he ever after loved with especial affection. But it was bad for the business of some exploiters or a poor girl, a ventriloquist and fortune teller, out of whom the apostle cast the demon that possessed her, and set her free. This meant liberty and sanity and normal life for the girl, but it destroyed the profits of her managers.

So, as was often the case Paul's experience, as it also had been in the life of his Master before him, business raised a hue and cry. Of course, they did not make public their real reasons: they cloaked their selfish interests beneath a mantle of patriotism and public spirit—quite as interests today, which want to exploit the people, cry, in comically solemn tones, that preachers of social justice, of clean politics, and of the rights of the under-privileged, should "stick to the simple Gospel." It was a trouble-making, condition-changing, life-transforming "simple Gospel" that the Apostles preached.

Invoking the evil spirits of racial prejudice — "these men, being Jews,"—and Roman jingoism, the enemies of Paul and Silas had them arrested, publicly beaten and thrust into jail; even into the foul inner dungeon which can be found only in the Orient. What a transformation in the lot of the prisoner has been effected by Christianity!

An Earthquake-Angel.

Our word "angle" means simply "messenger," and God as an infinite variety of messengers for the running of His errands. Even the earthquake may serve His purposes, as did the one which rent the locks and doors of the Philippian jail. One of the most comforting truths of our faith is that all the forces of nature are but servants of the living God who is our Father; and that they are ministering angels of His will. Christian history is full of instances of Divine intervention by nature's phenomena.

God has His own strange ways of answering prayer, as in the case of Paul and Silas. One has put the truth in verse:—

"I know not by what methods rare;
But this I know, God answers prayer.
I know that he has given His word,
Which tells me prayer is always heard
And will be answered, soon or late;
And so I pray ,and calmly wait.
I know not if the blessing sought
Will come in just the way I thought,
But leave my prayers with Him alone
Whose will is wiser than my own,
Assured that he will grant my qest,
Or send some answer far more blest."

This earthquake, which filled the jailer and everybody else with deadly terror, found Paul and Silas singing in their cell, while the other prisoners hearkened attentively. They were the first recorded singing evangelists: for the Gospel was introduced by a song, sung by angels at Bethlehem, and the last act of the Saviour and the twelve as they left their farewell meeting in the upper room, was to sing a hymn! We wonder what song or psalm, Paul and Silas were singing? I once heard Mr. Moody say that when he and Sankey would strike a snag in their evagelistic work, and the outlook was dark, he would call on Sankey to sing.

"Then shall my heart keep singing,
While to the Cross I cling."

It's real proof of Christianity when one can sing while undergoing prison experiences; and can sing, too, at midnight; for "He giveth songs in the night."

Least troubled of all the men in that Philippian jail were the two Christian prisoners. Their keeper fell into a panic, and thinking his charges had escaped, he sought the old Roman and modern Japanese method of escape from dishonor by suicide. But Paul, in all circumstances of life a helper, saved first of the jailers life and than his soul. He had no spite against this jailer; his mind was too full of a great passion to leave room for any petty personal prejudices. The Gospel is quick-acting; for that night the jailer and his whole family became Christians, and were baptized. And with equal swiftness the fruits of the new life were displayed in the warden; for he cleansed the prsioners' stripes and provided food (which oriental prisoners must somehow get from outside), and himself, a Roman officer, sat down rejoicing to a meal with these Jewish prisoners, at whom the city rabble had so recently been hooting.

When The Magistrates Apoligized.

Morning brought the ciltors, with a casual word from the praetors, or magistrates, that the two Christian prisoners should be set at liberty. Night had carried counsel and sanity to these officials, who realized that they had too quickly yielded to mob clamor.

"They flogged us in public and without a trial—flogged Roman citizens!" returned doughty Paul, his self-respecting manhood refusing to submit to such an indignity. "They put us in prison, and now are going to get rid of us secretly! No indeed! Let them come here themselves and take us out!"

Those sturdy words alarmed the praetors, who straightway did just what Paul said. There is a time for Christian manhood to assert itself. If Christians had not contended for their rights, the priceless privileges of citizenship, which many hold so lightly, would not be ours today. This is a lesson to put the fervor of faith and the iron of principle into the blood of all disciples of the Master.

WILLIAM F. WHITING NAMED AS SECRETARY COMMERCE TUESDAY

RESIGNATION OF HERBERT HOOVER ACCEPTED IN TELEGRAM OF PRAISE

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 21. (AP)—President Coolidg accepted today the resignation of Secretary Hoover from the cabinet and appointed William F. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., to succeed him.

Mr. Whiting, a personal friend and political supporter of President Coolidge for many years, arrived in Superior this morning and was administered the oath of office in the chief executive's room at the executive offices here. Mr. Whiting is head of the Whiting Paper company of Holyoke, Mass.

He has never previously held political office but has been very active in state politics especially in western Massachusetts. He was a delegate to the Republican National convention in 1920, 1924 and 1928. He is about 65 years of age.

President Coolidge accepted Secretary Hoover's resignation by telegram, addressed to Washington, in which he praised the Commerce Secretary's effort in promoting the commercial and business activities of the nation. The knowledge acquired by Mr. Hoover of business and government while in the cabinet was "unsurpassed," President Coolidge said.

SMITH ANSWERS ATTACK OF WHITE ON LEGISLATIVE ACTS; DEMOCRATS SWARM TO ALBANY

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Democratic legions swarming into Albany from all sections of the nation to see their new leader officially notified of his presidential nomination tomorrow night today found Governor Smith calmly waiting his hour of triumph as well as the reaction to his counter thrust at critics of his long record in the New York legislature.

Tomorrow evening on steps of the capitol the nominee will deliver a spech formally launching his campaign for the presidency.

Clearing his desk for the momentous event, the governor made public a detailed reply to William Allen White's charges that he favored the saloon and was lienient towards gambling and prostitution in his votes on a long list of bills while an assemblyman—an answer which he said must be considered final.

Declaring his legislative record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure," and that he was satisfied the people of New York state d... not concur in the "slanderous attack," the nominee assailed the republican national committee for "openly associating itself" with a matter he regarded as personal.

He aimed the rejoinder principally at the Kansas editor, but he intended it to apply to his other critics, including Dr. John Roach Straton, New York Baptist minister, who has charged the governor with being the greatest foe of the forces of moral progress in the country today.

After taking up each bill covered by White, the nominee denounced the whole thing as "unfair, unmanly and un-American," and added: "I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of my own state who have year after year expressed confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies."

"I am sure that I am right," he continued, "when I say it is not concurred in by the fair-minded, intelligent, thinking people of the country."

Purely Political.

He said he was "glad to have this matter out of the whispering stage and put in the open." He regarded it as "purely political," and said "when the campaign begins I do not propose to have the issue of that campaign befogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago."

"No one in all the 25 years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the republican national committee," the reply continued. Then, referring to White's cablegram from Europe denying he had "retracted" his charges as to gambling and commercialized vice, and which Governor Smith said was given to the newspapers by the committee as an "official release," it went on:

"What a cowardly course the republican national committee pursued! It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau and then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play."

Liquor Measures.

Tackling first White's charges dealing with liquor measures, Governor Smith said there had been "a deliberate attempt" to show that "my votes dealt with a far greater number of so-called liquor bills than in fact they did," that the intent of many had been misrepresented, and that almost invariably republican leaders had voted as he did on them.

Referring to the claim he had voted to allow saloons within 200 feet of a church or state school any place on Manhattan Island south of 59th street, he asserted this was unfair as the bill in quesion applied only to the Hotel Gotham which, while within 200 feet of a church, was permitted under court order to serve liquor to guests by the device of renting a house outside the 200-foot limit, having a hotel employe purchase the liquor in this house and then carry it to the guests in the hotel itself."

"Fair minded men," he said, "were confronted with the decision as between a license for the sale within the premises of the hotel and the spectacle of bellboys walking through the street with cocktail shakers and wine baskets in their hands.

"I chose to end the hyprocracy of such a procedure, and in view of the high character of the hotel, I was entirely satisfied that if liquor was to be consumed within the hotel it might just as well be sold in it."

Commercialized Vice.

As to commercialized vice, the governor took up his vote against a bill introduced first in 1919 and which proposed to regulate renting of rooms in hotels. The measure, he contended, was "unquestionably unconstitutional and unworkable."

"On this bill, and this single bill alone," he said, "William Allen White would have my wife, my children and my friends believe that in my long public career I was a friend of public prostitution."

All of the gambling measures referred to by White had to do with race track betting, the governor said, explaining he had voted with Governor Hughes against them, but later, at a special session, voted "the other way" as a protest against the "unjustified action of the governor in calling the legislature back into extraordinary session after the matter had been fully thrashed out and disposed of at the regular session."

The governor referred to another bill in the charges to prevent oral betting at race tracks, and said:

"How impossible such a statute was of administration I need not say."

To Define Saloon Attitude.

Declaring he would define in no "uncertain language" his attitude toward the saloon in his acceptance speech tomorrow night, the governor fired this parting shot:

"I have been called by my party to the leadership in a great campaign. I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my own state, and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters."

Motoring this afternoon to the home in Stockbridge, Mass., of Normal H. Davis, assistant secretary of the treasury and under secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet, the governor figures on at least nine holes of golf before returning to the executive mansion in the evening.

PRISON FARM GUARD BADLY BEATEN WHEN ATTACKED IN AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—C. R. Stewart, Eastham state prison farm guard, here with Forrest Hocker, liquor convict on a furlough, was badly beaten today by two men at Hocker's mother's home.

Stewart was taken to a hospital with severe lacerations about the head and several teeth knocked out.

Officers said charges would be filed against the men who are said to have called to take Hocker for an automobile ride. Hocker made no attempt to escape, the officers said. He was here on a short furlough to attend the funeral of his five year old son, burned to death in a residence fire along with his grandfather, Jesse Maners, recently.

The men dragged Stewart to their automobile, took him to the Colorado river bank, ejected him and put him to flight.

Hocker, serving a two year liquor sentence from Travis county, said Stewart told him to stay back from the door while he talked to the visitors at the residence, going to the door without his gun. The beating followed when Stewart refused to let Hocker go for the ride, the latter said.

thought his stand on farm relief preferable to that of Herbert Hoover.

The speech caused one democrat to declare full opposition to Governor Smith's election. Shortly after it was delivered a republican indicated he would support the governor.

Those who praised without stint were Senator Edwards of New Jersey, George of Georgia, Fletcher of Florida, Caraway of Arkansas, and Representative Bloom of New York. Those who objected to portions of the address were Postmaster General New and Senators Borah of Idaho, Smoot of Utah, and Fess of Ohio.

Pro Question Excepted.

Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the Wilson administration, and Representative Crisp of Georgia, excepted only the governor's prohibition views in their praise. George N. Peek, the "normally republican" farm leader, and former Senator H. C. Hansborough of North Dakota, a republican who now is chairman of the Smith independent league, indorsed Smith's farm relief expression.

Senator Edwards said the governor's exposition "of true conditions under Volstead prohibition and his brutally frank statement of how he will attack and seek to overcome crime and corruption of the 18th amendment, and its enabling act, if elected president, is most refreshing in this era of republican straddling, pussyfooting, and hypocritical recrimination against those who honestly seek the light."

Senator George saw in the speech a "remarkable grasp of national and international problems. He noted the governor pledged enforcement of the prohibition amendment and laws and added:

To Stamp Out Corruption.

"His assurance that he will ruthlessly stamp out corruption in the enforcement agencies carries conviction. * * * He recognizes the right of any democrat to differ from his view. He assumes full responsibility for his conclusions and purposes specific remedy."

"From Senator Fletcher came this comment: "This speech shows a grasp of national problems that is refreshing, stimulating and inspiring. * * * I anticipate a wave of popular approval that will be irresistible." Representative Bloom described the speech "A fearless expositionof real democracy, devoid of sham and pretense."

Josephus Daniels declared the governor's prohibition stand was "unwise" but held the speech otherwise to "ring true upon the fundamentals of democracy."

"Even if Governor Smith's position (on prohibition) were tenable," said the former naval secretary, "the proposal of amending the 18th amendment is one which is now so impossible of accomplishment that it is nothing more than the expression of a personal opinion."

Crisp Otherwise Pleased

The other democratic dissenter from the Smith prohibition stand —Representative Crisp of Georgia —said the governor otherwise delighted him on every subject. He declared that as a congressman he would not vote to carry out the Smith prohibition recommendations.

On the republican side, Governor Smith's declaration as to the tariff was criticized by Senators Borah and Smoot. The former said the Underwood tariff "which I understand the governor to specifically indorse," would ruin the livestock, dairy, poultry and kindred industries. Senator Smoot, who described the address as a "fairly good democratic political speech," declared the Underwood tariff "would have ruined the country if the World wa rhad not occurred."

Fess Assails Stand.

Senator Fess, the keynoter at Kansas City, found the speech had "the commendable feature of frankness" but assailed among other things the governor's prohibition stand.

"The Governor's promise to enforce the eighteenth amendment in the light of his attitude past and present," said Fess, "is not convincing to the American people."

Postmaster General New said the Smith attitude toward prohibition could mean "nothing else than the repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act."

In a statement condemning Hoover's farm relief view as expressed at West Branch, George N. Peek, praised that of the New York governor. As contrasted with Hoover, the farme leader said, Smith has approved the idea that "a sound way must be found to make the tariff effective on agricultural products with exportable surpluses and that there must be equality of treatment in tariff schedules for agriculture with industry."

Former Senator Hansbrough was equally commendatory on the governor's relief declaration.

Woman Quits Democrats.

The prohibition part of the acceptance speech, however, caused a deflection from democratic ranks. Dr. Jennie M. Califas, three times national committeewoman for Nebraska, said:

"I shall oppose the election of Governor Smith because he is opposed to the principles of prohibition and his promise to work for its serious modification."

Against this deflection was the publication by the Hudson, N. J. Dispatch of a statement accredited to former Congressman Edward W. Gray, a republican who ran for the senate last spring on a wet platform.

"I cannot find it possible as a life long republican," the newspaper quoted Gray, "to indorse Herbert Hoover."

Many Endorsement Acceptance Speech

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Endorsements of Gov. Smith's acceptance speech were forthcoming today from many chieftains in the democratic camp, Chairman John J. Raskob of the national committee, being one of the first to issue a statement praising the address. He described it as a "state document."

Jesse H. Jones of Houston, Texas, prime mover in the party's national convention in June and now chairman of the advisory board of the finance committee, likewise issued a statement of praise as did Charles M. Hay, recently nominated by Missouri democrats for the United States senate on a dry platform.

The three agreed that the presidential nominee had defined his position clearly on all questions, Mr. Raskob insisting that no one could misinterpret his stand.

Mr. Jones said that farm relief is the "biggest issue" in the campaign, adding that the governor's speech "makes it so for he proposes going at it as soon as elected, and we expect his plan is now in the making."

Pro Views Inoffensive.

On prohibition, the Texan said that while the governor's views were "not acceptable to those who disagree with them," they should not be "offensive to any fair minded prohibitionists, for the reason that he makes clear that the president is a law enforcer and not a law maker, and that he will enforce the law."

Mr. Hay said that while he did not agree with the presidential nominee's "proposals to modify the prohibition policy, I respect him for his frankness and straightforwardness in dealing with the question."

"I was particularly impressed with his manifest sincerity and earnestness," he added, "in declaring his determination, if elected, to enforce the law and to stamp out ruthlessly the corruption now preventing honest enforcement. In my judgment, if the present administration had approached and discharged the enforcement task in that spirit, there would be no liquor issue in American politics today.

"Governor Smith rightfully and frankly recognized that the question of amendments of the present policy is up to congress and the people, while himself recommending some changes in the law, he pledges honest and vigorous enforcement. Such enforcement will in my judgment solve the whole problem."

Governor Not Reached.

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—(AP)—No comment was available today from Governor Moody on the nomination acceptance speech of Governor Al Smith democratic presidential candidate.

Asked for an expression early today, the governor said he might have a statement by 11 a. m.

After that time, it developed the governor had left suddenly for Georgetown without preparing the statement.

Mark Wiginton, assistant secretary to the governor, said the latter had gone to extend sympathy to the family of District Judge Cooper Sansom who died at Georgetown this morning.

Texan is Exorcised.

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Governor Smith's acceptance speech "tore the mask away from the anti-prohibition campaign which he proposed to make," Alvin S. Moody chairman of the anti-Smith democrats of Texas, said in a statement here today.

The New York governor's "plan for wrecking prohibition is deserving of the denunciation of all American citizens, whether they be for or against prohibition," the statement said.

"On other points than prohibition, Mr. Smith's speech is a mere rehash of his New York political ideas; they are entirely provincial and entirely threadworn. He can't possibly expect them to arouse any enthusiasm. Even the ones which will meet with approval."

Johnson Sees Tammany

TOCOMA, Wash., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Commenting on Governor Smith's declaration in his acceptance address objecting to the use of census figures of 1890 as the quota basis of immigration, Representative Albert Johnson, republican, of Washington, chairman of the house immigration and naturalization committee, said it corresponded with arguments against the provision made by Tammany democrats in congress.

Scores Pro Plans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition, said today the changes in the prohibition law advocated by Governor Smith in his acceptance speech, would "end prohibition and all benefits that have been accrued thereunder.'

"As I see it," said Mr. Lowman, "Governor Smith's plan on liquor has two points.

"One—He wants to have congress immediately increase the alcholic content from one-half of one per cent to some higher point which would give us old-time beer He tried to do that in New York state by passing the Walker beer bill, but the United States supreme court held the act unconstitutional.

"Two—He wants to modify the eighteenth amendment so as to permit each state to determine whether liquor can be manufactured, imported and sold within such states. That plan would throw us back into the old chaos that existed before adopt of the eighteenth amentment, when, for instance, we had a dry Kansas and a wet Missouri, but booze never recognized state lines.

"Governor Smith's position is the same he had advocated for years in New York state. Such a policy would end prohibition and all benefits that have accrued thereunder."

Miss Karen Olsen returned Sunday from Denton, where she has been attending the summer session of North Texas State Teachers' College.

Popular Kerens Couple Married Athens Sunday

KERENS, Aug. 23.—(Spl.)—Marvin McClung, prominent gin man, and Miss Vida Dowis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dowis of this city were quietly married in Athens Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Hooper, pastor of the First Methodist church of that city officiating.

Shortly after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. McClung returned to Kerens where they will make their future home.

The wedding came as a complete surprise to the many friends of the young couple. Following the announcement of the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. McClung were the recipients of many congratulatory expressions.

Mr. McClung has been associated with the Anderson & McClung cotton gin more than ten years, and is well known in ginners' circles. He is a member of a prominent pioneer family of Navarro county.

The bride is the charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dowis of this city where she has resided most of her life. She was a member of the sophomore class of the Kerens high school, also a member of the Jeffersonian Literary society of the school in which she took an active part. She has held membership in the Sweet Sixteen class of the First Baptist church of this city the past two years and has taken part in the social life of the city.

about half way down in his speech, the nominee, interrupted frequently by applause, said that while he would never favor return of the saloon and would stand on the democratic platform pledge to make an honest endeavor to enforce the 18th amendment and all laws enacted under it, he thought a change from present conditions was needed.

He favored as an alternative a modification of the 18th amendment to permit the restricted sale of alcholic beverages by states, if approved by popular referendum, and also a change in the Volstead act to allow each state to determine its own standrd of alcholic content.

"We may learn from the experience of other nations," he said.

"Our Canadian neighbors have gone far in this manner to solve this problem by the method of sale made by the state itself and not by private individuals."

Applause Frequent.

The governor frequently halted the applause that rang through the crowded chamber by holding up his hand. Outdoors the handclapping and cheering almost every subject he touched upon—as he promised to give the farm surplus crop problem his immediate attention, if elected; as he assailed the republican administration on many scores, particularly on its latin-American policy; as he pledged himself to a "real" endeavor to outlaw war, and as he opposed the basing of immigration quotas on a census 38 years old.

Also meeting with applause were his statements against any "suggestion of drastic" changes in the tariff, for maintaining public ownership and control of water power resources; his references to labor, veterans, conservation government department reorganization, and his emphasis that his appointments, if he were elected, would not be influenced by a person's wet or dry attitude, financial or sectional conservations, or religious affiliations.

Pittman Notifies.

Previously, Senator Pittman of Nevada had notified him he had been chosen "commander in chief of the hosts of democracy, with full confidence that you will carry our banner to victory."

Reaching the name of Woodrow Wilson in his notification address, the Nevada senator paused for some handclapping, and as this died down, some one bawled out into the stillness:

"Al is greater than them all.'

Speaking at the rate of more than 100 words a minute, and with few gestures, Governor Smith frequently paused to drink some water. He took an hour and fifteen minutes to complete the address.

After it was over he walked out to the east steps to thank the crowd, still standing in the rain.

"There have been many times when I have regretted the inadequacy of the assembly chamber," he said, "but that inadequacy never was so forcefully borne in upon me as tonight.

Anticipated Great Time.

"I watched them building this platform; I saw it grow from a thing of rough planks to its present finished state, and I kept figuring to myself every day what a good time I was going to have Wednesday night.

"Well it was ordered otherwise, but I am given to understand that you hear it all any way—through the horn.

Senator Pittman told you, at the conclusion of his speech that I would come down here and speak to you for a few minutes. That's why I am here; what I want to do is to introduce to you some of the figures you listened to over the microphone, so that you will know what they look like."

The nominee then introduced Robinson, Pittman and Chairman Raskob of the national committee..

Misses Adelade Robinson, Jeanette Dillingham and Bee Mabry of Blooming Grove were visitors in Corsicana, Tuesday morning.

ADDITIONAL LAND FOR SAN ANTONIO GOVERNMENT FIELD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Acquisition of 2,400 acres of land for a primary flying field and aviation school near San Antonio, Texas, was approved today by the department of justice after title to all of the 25 separate parcels of land comprising the tract had been approved.

Purchase of the tract was authorized by congress in February after citizens of San Antonio had spent $625,000 in obtaining the site. The land then was donated to the government for flying field purposes.

Supreme Court Balks Stephenson's Effort Escape Life Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Judge David A. Myers, chief justice of the Indianapolis supreme court, last night issued a writ of prohibition restraining Judge John Richter of the Laporte circuit court from enforcing a writ of habeas corpus sought by D. C. Stephenson. Stephenson, a former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, is serving a life sentence for murder at the state prison in Michigan City.

Hearing of the hobeas corpus action has been set for today at Laporte. Stephenson based his claim for release on allegations that he was convicted in a court which lacked jurisdiction and under an improperly drawn indictment.

To The Voters of Navarro County:

On next Saturday the voters of Texas will determine who shall represent us in the United States Senate for the next six years.

The office of U. S. Senator is so important, the person thus honored embodying in his official character the ideals and aspirations of our great Commonwealth, that the undersigned citizens of Navarro County feel impelled to offer a few of the many reasons why Hon. Tom Connally should have your support.

First. He is honest. His entire public and private career has never been tainted by a suggestion of deception or duplicity, politically or otherwise. He has never claimed to be, or espouse one thing to one class and something else to another.

Second. Connally is square. He never appropriated a colleague's bill to boost his own reputation.

Third. He is truthful. If elected to the U. S. Senate, no cloud of political intrigue with secret political organizations on the one hand, and unholy combinations with Ferguson on the other, will ever have to be explained or denied.

Fourth. Connally has won the admiration—the pinnacle of regard—by both his colleagues in the House and members of the Senate, and will at once be accepted by the Senate as a member entirely without taint, and Texas will then have two Senators—Sheppard and Connally—to recall the past glory of our Senatorial standing in the days of Houston, Coke, Maxey, Reagan and our own Roger Q. Mills in the old Century, and of Chilton, Bailey and Culberson in the new.

Connally is regarded as the greatest debater on the Democratic side in the House of Representatives.

His opponent can never hope to assume such leadership, and Texas is entitled to the services of its most outstanding aspirant for this great office.

Fifth. Connally's standing in the House is proved by his membership on one of the three greatest committees in the House, Foreign Affairs, membership on which is exclusive and precludes membership on any other committee, by virtue of its extreme importance. Only the biggest men in the House are appointed on Foreign Affairs, Ways and Means and Judiciary. And only one man from any State may serve on one of these committees.

Sixth. Connally is courageous. Infinitely more doubtful, even injurious bills are offered in Congress than good bills. Selfish combinations, seeking advantage, promote bills in Congress, and secure appointments of those with sinister motives, to serve special interests, which have to be checkmated.

Connally would have fought the appointment of Cyrus E. Woods, holder of Railway and Coal properties, on the Interstate Commerce Commission, had he been in the Senate. Connally would have championed the rights of the Public to a fair investigation into the power trust, instead of the partisan commission selected by a partisan Republican President, dominated by an exclusive political aristocracy, that knows no section of the country except the East, and serves no element except the protected rich.

Seventh. Connally's election to the U. S. Senate would eliminate from the politics of Texas the bitterness which has prevailed in recent years.

The grotesque feature of this campaign is presented by Mayfield and Ferguson uniting all the elements they can command in a last desperate effort to keep the politics of Texas from getting its head above the waves of prejudice and hate and confusion, by these two extremes joining forces in their hope to defeat Connally.

No such dilema as existed six years ago, which resulted in the Mayfield senatorial accident, presents itself to the independent citizenary of the State today.

Connally, upstanding, frank, courageous, the candidate of no interest that he will be called upon hereafter to serve, represents the highest elements of patriotic citizenship, obligated to fairly and energetically serve all, with private and secret obligations to none.

Independent of all hidden combinations, he will go to the U. S. Senate, in the power of a vigorous, untainted manhood, his brain clear from dissipation, his eye keen to discern good from evil, with a private and public record of dignity, poise, sagacity, courage and soberity in both precept and practice that promise a useful and honorable career as our next United States Senator.

Without wanting to be presumptious we appeal to our neighbors to support Honorable Tom Connally for the United States Senate and let Texas place its public life on a higher plane, and stamp out and forget the animosities, the bitterness, that have been so rife in politics in Texas the past several years.

ATTEND THE CONNALLY RALLY AT THE COURT HOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT.

SMITH MAKES HIS POSITION CLEAR ON MOOTED QUESTIONS

ment, reforestation and conservation of natural resources, and advocated "progressive legislation for the protection and care of working men and women."

While standing "squarely" on the democratic platform declaration for restrictive immigration, the nominee asserted that he was "hearty in favor of removing from the immigration law the harsh provision which separates families," and was "opposed to the principle of restriction based upon the figures of immigrant population contained in a census thirty-eight years old."

Tackles Prohibition.

Half way through his address, which he had prepared with the idea of completing its delivery within an hour, Governor Smith tackled the prohibition question. He never will advocate or approve any law, he said, which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon, and sale of intoxicants by state agencies was proposed as an alternative.

Declaring that the president of the United States has two constitutional duties with respect to prohibition—enforcement of the law and a determination of what changes, if any, should be recommended to congress, the nominee made this pledge:

"I shall to the very limit execute the pledge of our platform 'to make an honest endeavor to enforce the 18th amendment and all other provisions of the federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto.' "

Then he added: "The president does not make the laws. He does his best to execute them whether he likes them or not. The corruption in enforcement activities which caused a former republican prohibition administrator to state that three-fourths of the dry agents were political ward heelers named by politicians without regard to civil service laws and that prohibition is the 'new political pork barrel,' I will ruthlessly stamp out. Such conditions cannot and will not exist under any administration presided over by me."

Insisting that the present legal definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage is "admittedly inaccurate and unscientific," Gov. Smith expressed the view that "some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law," which would permit each state to fix its own standard of alcoholic content, "subject always to the proviso that that standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by congress."

"I believe moreover that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the provisions of the 18th amendment," the nominee went on. "Certainly, no one foresaw when the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should, after this eight years of trial, be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified.

Favors State Control.

"I personally believe in an amendment in the 18th amendment which would give to each individual state itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverage, the sale to be made only by the state itself and not for consumption in any public place.

"We may well learn from the experience of other nations. Our Canadian neighbors have gone far in this manner to solve this problem by the method of sale made by the state itself and not by private individuals.

"There is no question here of the return of the saloon. When I stated that the saloon is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country,' I meant it. I mean it today. I will never advocate or approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon."

Declaring that he believed the solution he proposes would be that "which would today be offered by Jefferson, or Jackson, or Cleveland, or Wilson," Gov. Smith pointed out that "the platform of my party is silent upon any question of change of the law."

"I personally believe there should be change," he added, "and I shall advise the congress in accordance to my constitutional duty of whatever changes I deem necessary or expedient.' It will then be for the people and the representatives in the national and state legislatures to determine whether these changes should be made."

Farm Relief Matter.

Turning to the farm problem, the democratic standard bearer announced that he proposed "to substitute action for inaction and friendliness for hostility" in dealing with the question.

Recalling that President Coolidge twice vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill passed by a republican congress, Smith said that "whether the veto of that specific measure was right or wrong, it is undisputed that no adequate substitute was ever recommended to the congress by the president and that no constructive plan of belief was ever formulated by any leader of the republican party."

Emphasizing the need for cooperative, coordinated marketing and warehousing of surplus farm products, the nominee expressed the view that the democratic platform "points the way to make the tariff effective for crops of which we produce a surplus."

"Only the mechanics remain to be devised," said Smith, reaffirming an intention of seeking the aid of farmers, economists, and leaders in finance and business in the working out of an "economically sound" solution of the problem of handling crop surpluses.

At the outset of his speech, the democratic candidate attacked prosperity claims, declaring that "the republican party builds its case on a myth."

"The claims of government economy is as baseless as the claims that general prosperity exists," he added, "and that it can exist only under republican administration."

Assails Republicans.

Gov. Smith assailed the republican administration also for failing to carry out governmental reorganization plans, took a shot at the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, and declared that the tariff commission had ceased to function.

"Pay no attention to the republican propaganda," counseled Smith, "and accept my assurance as the leader of our party that democratic tariff legislation will be honest. It will play no favorites. It will do justice to every element in the nation."

In assailing the administration's course with regard to Mexico and Nicaragua, the democratic party leader said:

"The Monroe doctrine must be maintained but not as a pretext for meddling with the purely local concerns of countries which even though they be small, are sovereign and entitled to demand and receive respect for their sovereignty."

Governor Smith declared that the "usefulness" of arbitration treaties as deterrents of war had been "materially impaired by the reservations asserted by various nations of the right to wage defensive wars as those reservations are interpreted in the light of President Coolidge's record."

"I believe the American people desire to assume their full share of responsibility for the administration of a world of which they are a part, without political alliance with any foreign nation," said the nominee. "I pledge myself to a resumption of a real endeavor to make outlawry of war effective by removing its causes and to substitute the methods of conciliation, conference, arbitration and judicial determination."

Transportation.

In his discussion of the transportation, the nominee said that increased railroad and terminal efficiency in the handling of necessities, improvement of highway for short haul, of small bulk commodities, and development of inland waterways would aid in bringing down living costs.

He recalled that as governor of New York he had expressed a preference for the so-called all-American waterway route through that state in preference to the St. Lawrence project from the Great Lakes to the sea. Reports favoring both routes have been challenged, he said, adding that he would consider it his duty as president to restudy the question "impartially."

Touching on Mississippi flood relief, the nominee expressed the view that the amount appropriated for this work by congress was too small to make even a start."

"An ounce of prevention," he observed, "is worth a pound of first aid and relief."

The governor referred to the proposed development of the Colorado river which has been a subject of controversy, revolving around the Boulder dam bill, in the river basin and in congress for several years, declaring:

"I am of the opinion that the best results would flow from the setting up of a Colorado river authority, representative equally of all the states concerned. The development should be by the states through the agency of this authority by treaty ratified by congress."

As for Muscle Shoals the nominee said that while retaining government ownership and control he would seek to have it operated so that the original peace-time purpose of construction would be achieved.

He also said that undoubtedly legislation should be framed to meet just causes for complaint in regard to the unwarranted issuance of injunctions in labor disputes.

Near the conclusion of his speech the democratic nominee made this declaration: "I can with complete honesty make the statement that my nomination was brought about by no promise given or implied by me or anyone in my behalf. I will be influenced in appointments by no question of a person's wet or dry attitude, by whether he is rich or poor, whether he comes from the north, south, east or west, or by what church he attends or his worship of God."

CURTIS ADVOCATES TARIFF REVISION IN OPENING CAMPAIGN

VICE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE SPOKE AT REPUBLICAN RALLY IN EAST

ROCKY POINT R. I., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Revision of the tariff to afford "full protection" to industry, agriculture and labor was promised by Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, in opening the eastern campaign for his party here today at a republican rally.

"The republican party promises," he declared, "to revise the tariff so that the products of our factories, the products of our farms and the products of our mines will be fully protected and so that the American labor will continue to be protected."

The Kansas senator emphasized that agriculture demanded increased duties on farm products. After citing the democratic attitude on the tariff as expressed in the party's platforms from 1892 to 1928 he asserted that party "now hopes to fool the American people by its claim that it will favor an equitable distribution ofthe tariff benefits and burdens among all."

Republicans, he said, are "proud" of their record of the last eight years and gto the the people on that record. He stated that the national debt had been reduced by "about $7,000,000,000" and that taxes have been cut four times in that period. He declared the party "stands by the policies of President Coolidge and if elected will carry out those policies." He spoke of Herbert Hoover, the republican presidential nominee, as one who "knows the condition of the American farmers, of American labor and of American business men, and has their future welfare at heart."

Miss Dollie Bunch Weds Roy Wilson in Powell Saturday

The marriage of Roy P. Wilson of St. Jo and Miss Dollie Bunch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bunch, Powell, Texas, took place at the home of the bride Saturday morning. Only the family and a few intimate friends were present.

The Rev. E. J. Patton, pastor of the Methodist church, at Plano, officiated. Both the bride and bridegroom are former students of North Texas State Teachers' College, Denton, Texas.

The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Lillian Cole Jackson.

The ceremony was read in the living room before an archway of pink roses and lilies of the valley arranged before two windows. The approach to the altar was marked by ferns and tall floor baskets of cut flowers.

The bride wore a beige traveling frock, small, close-fitting beige felt hat, brown slippers, and carried an arm bouquet of pink and white.

Miss Faye Bunch, who attended the bride, wore a brown satin. Mr. Johnnie Wilson, brother of the groom, was best man.

Little Miss Mary Sue Washam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Washam, was the flower girl. Her dress was of pink georgette with a ruffled skirt. She carried a small pink basket of rose petals.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left for South Texas, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Gainesville, following the wedding trip.

IN MEMORIAN.

Mrs. Ella Anderson died July 6, 1928, at 10 a. m. She was born April 8, 1880. She was sick for a long time but only in bed two weeks before the blessed Lord called her home. She was a member of the Baptist church at Jester. She lived a Christian life. She leaves two boys and one girl.

Grieve not, dear ones, for we know she is at rest. The Lord had a vacant place in heaven, so He has called your mother to fill it. Just trust to the Savior she loved and some sweet day you will meet mother where there will be no good-byes.

She was laid to rest at Navarro Mills cemetery.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in that home,
Which can never be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in heaven.

Written by her sister-in-law,
MRS. J. R. BROWN.

I thank the dear people of Jester for their kindness to her; may the richest of blessings rest with them all.

To the Voters of Corsicana:

From the large vote I received in the recent primary election it looks like the people of Navarro county want me for their County Judge, but as I lacked only a few votes of receiving as many as both of my opponents, it is necessary for me to make another race.

The candidates have been before you and you have had an opportunity of seeing and hearing them and I am asking you to vote for the one you think best qualified to fill the office of County Judge.

I want to thank you for the large vote you gave me, and ask those who did not vote for me, as well as those who did, to go to the election on Saturday, August 25th, and vote for me for County Judge.

Your Friend,
CLAY NASH.

GEORGE B. HARVEY, AMBASSADOR, EDITOR, PRESIDENT MAKER

NOTED PUBLICIST DIED SUDDENLY AT SUMMER HOME IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DUBLIN, N. H., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Col. George B. Harvey, ambassador, editor and maker of presidents, is dead at his summer home in Shallcross, Pumpelly Hill.

Death came suddenly yesterday afternoon. Colonel Harvey was in his 64th year.

A month ago he came here to seek relief in the high altitudes from asthma. He seemed on the road to recovery. A heart attack, however, brought death within a few seconds. Mrs. Harvey and his physician were the only ones at his bedside.

As editor of Harper's Weekly, Harvey fought for the nomination of Wilson for the presidency. Later the editor turned from his former friend to ally himself with the senate irreconcilables in their fight against the league of nations.

To his influence in breaking the deadlock at the Chicago convention the nomination of Harding was largely attributed.

Ambassador to Britain.

Harding appointed Harvey ambassador to the court of St. James. There Harvey created several sensations. He appeared in ancient court dress discarded by American ambassadors for many years with a resultant flood of editorial jibes in this country.

At a pilgrim's day dinner he criticized the American response to allied troops appeals in the early days of the war. The speech was severely censored in this country.

Harvey, who had started life as a newspaperman rising from positions on the Springfield Republican and the Chicago Daily News to the managing editorship of the New York World, returned to journalism after his resignation from his London post shortly after the death of President Harding.

He was editor of the Washington Post for a year.

Burial will be at Peachman.

Discovers Wilson.

Harvey apparently was the first to discover Wilson as a presidential possibility. He first advocated the Princeton president as senator from New Jersey. Failing in that fight, he moved to bring Wilson forward as the democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey. Then he proposed the governor for the democratic presidential nomination.

While Wilson was conducting his campaign for delegates to the historic Baltimore convention, Harvey had his name at the masthead of Harper's Weekly and gave the candidate vigorous support editorially. Before the [illegible] campaign was over [illegible] Harvey and the late Henry [illegible] met at the Metropolitan Club in New York to discuss [illegible] ed by Harvey if [illegible] Harper's Weekly [illegible] him. Wilson [illegible] one of his friends [illegible] it was not siding [illegible] This was [illegible] quarters that Harvey had the support of [illegible]

After the conference Harvey withdrew Wilson's name from the magazine's masthead, however, he continued to support the governor personally. From this conference grew the charge of irresistible which gave Wilson no little concern during his campaign. He apologized to Harvey in writing for his apparent [illegible] ness, coining then the phrase that he must have "a single track mind."

After Wilson became president, Harvey visited him at the White House at a conference generally referred to as one of reconciliation. Later, at the suggestion of his secretary, Joseph Tumulty, Wilson decided to appoint Harvey as ambassador to France, but before the appointment could be announced Harvey attacked Wilson in an interview in the New York Times and the president then held he could not make the appointment in such circumstances.

Breaks on League.

Harvey disagreed with Wilson on the League of Nations and the peace treaty and became one of the close advisers of the senate irreconcilables in the memorable struggle over that pact. During the year and more that fight continued, Harvey fought the Versailles Treaty through his newly created Harvey's Weekly and was in frequent telephonic communication with senators leading the fight against ratification.

Throwing his personal support to Harding in the 1920 pre-convention campaign Harvey was early on the ground in Chicago and had a part in the conferences which led up to the breaking of the deadlock between Leonard Wood, Frank O. Lowden and Hiram Johnson. After the nomination of Harding, Harvey visited him at Marion, Ohio, assisting him in the preparation of his speeches, particularly that in which the republican candidate advocated an Association of Nations founded upon the Hague Tribunal as a substitute for the League of Nations.

Within less than a month after he took office, Harding appointed Harvey as ambassador to Great Britain. Some senate democrats opposed his nomination because of his attacks on Wilson, but his appointment was confirmed. Scarcely had he reached London before Harvey created a stir by appearing at Court in the knee breeches, silk stockings and silver-buckled slippers of ancient days.

Object of Criticism.

Editorial writers and his enemies in this country poked fun at him, especially since Harvey was modeled in anything but heroic physical proportions. Scarcely had this flurry waned before the new ambassador aroused real ire in this country by declaring at a Pilgrim's Day dinner at London that the United States did not send its young men overseas to have humanity, but to save the United States, adding that they were sent "reluctantly and laggardly."

There were demands by American Legion posts and patriotic societies from one end of the country to the other that this speech be denounced by the government. President Harding took occasion in an address at Hoboken four days after Harvey's speech at London to make plain his own disagreement with his ambassador as to why [illegible] soldiers went [illegible] the battle fields of [illegible] they saw civilization threatened and decided it." [illegible] Again at Arlington National Cemetery six days later the president indirectly rebuked Harvey for his utterances, declaring that "across the seas we sent our hosts of Liberty's sons, commissioned to redress the eternal scales."

On February 21, 1922, at another Pilgrim's dinner at London Harvey again raised a furore at home by his address on the outcome of the Washington Arms Conference. Upon that occasion, Senator Reed, of Missouri, the only senate democrat to espouse Harvey's nomination, assailed him, saying: "I withdraw that speech (supporting the nomination) and I adorn myself with the sackcloth of repentance and place the ashes of contrition on my brow."

Resigned In 1923.

Under the direction of President Harding, Harvey had a prominent part in various post-war settlement conferences held in London and Paris. He resigned on October 4, 1923, three months after the death of Harding. Upon his return to this country, Harvey became editor of the Washington Post, serving for one year until May, 1925, meantime editing the North American Review. He retired from active work during the year following.

Harvey made his debut as editor of the Post by attacking the then Secretary Hughes and Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts for the passage of the bill against Japanese immigration. Although he attacked members of the Coolidge administration, he supported Coolidge for president in 1924.

He branded the war debt settlement as the fruit of a "successful European plot to involve the United States in reparations complications for the next fifty years" and declared they pledged this country to "intervention in the cockpit of Europe."

Colonel Harvey, who had that title by virtue of service on the staff of governors of New Jersey and South Carolina, married Alma A. Parker at Peacham on October 13, 1887, and there was one daughter by the union, Dorothy, who later married an army officer, Col. M. H. Thompson.

Harvey held degrees, some honorary, from a number of institutions of learning, was an honorary member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity of William and Mary College, and was a member of a number of clubs in this country and Great Britain. He also was a trustee of Stevens Institute of Technology.

facing. If Governor Smith can bring the Democratic party to the support of the position which he takes an enormous service will thereby be rendered to the nation. It remains for those of us Republicans of the old-fashioned sort who are profoundly interested in fundamental political principles to see whether we can get to something with the Republican party.

Modification Possible.

"The proposed modification of the Volstead Act is fully within the present powers of congress and would perhaps relieve to some slight extent difficulties of the present situation. It would not, however, reach the root of the matter, which is the eighteenth amendment itself.

"For reasons of moral and political principle which I have frequently given and which have never been answered I urge and shall continue to urge absolute repeal of that amendment. Governor Smith now proposes an ingenious and practicable plan by amending the eighteenth amendment, or returning to those states whose people desire it, authority to control the liquor traffic within their several borders after the fashion which has proven so successful in Quebec and other Canadian provinces.

"The objection to the eighteenth amendment itself would not be met [illegible] by this method of dealing with the subject. That amendment would remain to plague the country with false doctrine for years to come.

"It will be most interesting to observe the reaction of public opinion to Gov. Smith's very definite and reasonable recommendation[illegible]

CLEANUP CAMPAIGN ADVOCATED IN ORDER LOWER FIRE HAZARD

CITY MUST KEEP DOWN FIRE LOSS TO CONTINUE ITS PRESENT RATE

Seeking to enlist the further aid of public cooperation through careful watching and clean-up measures to round out a record for recent years in low fire losses, the Fire Prevention committee of the chamber of commerce has issued a call for a city clean-wide clean-up.

During the past eight months the insured fire losses have amounted to only about $18,000 and if the losses during the next four months to Jan. 1 do not exceed an additional $8000 the city will preserve its insurance credit of $3 on each $100 premiums.

Property owners of Corsicana pay out annually around $150,000 for fire insurance and even to the existing low credit of three per cent comes as a considerable saving to the community.

FOUNDLING OF OTHER YEARS IN CHICAGO SEARCHING FOR MAN TO BE HUSBAND NO. FIVE

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Belle Livingston, who was found beneath a huge sunflower plant years ago in the back yard of John R. Graham, then mayor of Emporia, Kansas, is here seeking her fifth husband. She declared she will go to California or China to "get her man," if she can't find him here.

Belle was adopted by Mr. Graham and educated in a convent at Oldenburg, Ind., until she ran away to become a musical comedy trouper. There she met her first husband, Richard Waring of Chicago. A divorce a year later and a settlement for $150,000 afforded her a trip to Europe where she coined the phrase "spend it while you have it."

With her finances gone she accepted stipulations of a wager that she could go around the world with $25 as her stake. She won $250,000 and Count Latassi, who became her husband. He died.

Then she wrote her autobiography, "The Belle of Bohemia" and subsequently met Edward Mohler, who was then a leading stockholder in the Nickle Plate railroad.

Belle and Mohler separated in 1912 and Co. Walter James Hutchins of Woolich arsenal, London, married her the following year. "I lived with the colonel fourteen years," she told interviewers, "but when he wanted to settle down and I wanted to keep on living I told him he was discharged. He doesn't want to divorce me until I find a new husband," she added.

"He must be human, cosmopolitan and understanding and he must have or make as much money as I do."

a third entered the abdomen near the right side; and the fourth hit the left leg about six inches above the knee and came out in front, breaking the bone in passage. Autrey staggered into the middle of the street and fell after being shot.

One bullet sped into the Joe Wilson drug store directly across the street, striking a grip machine and penetrating into the metal box encasing it, and almost emerging through the second wall on the opposite side from where the bullet hit the machine.

It was reported that Mrs. Autrey was sitting in an automobile within a short distance of where the shooting occurred.

Autrey was a cement contractor and White is manager of a recreational club.

Surviving Autrey is his wife and one little son. White is married. Both are well-known in this section of the country.

Autrey was rushed to the Corsicana Hospital and Clinic in the Sutherland ambulance.

EXECUTIVE CHANGES REPORTED PENDING WESTERN SYSTEMS

as is Charles Donnelly, now president of the Northern Pacific. In that event, it was said, the Southern Pacific, the Burlington and the merged roads would have one operating president, in hopes of eliminating present traffic and freight competitions, although their nominal individuality would be maintained.

As successors to Mr. Holden, the directors said Mr. Budd and Mr. Donnelly were under consideration. Financial circles also entertained rumors that F. E. Williamson, executive vice president of the Burlington, would succeed Holden.

In 1923 Holden submitted to the Interstate commerce commission a plan for consolidation of all western roads into four systems, the Burlington, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. He denied rumors today of a new line to be formed by the Burlington, Western Pacific, Southern Pacific, Denver Rio Grande and Western, and Denver & Salt Lake roads, as Well Street heard yesterday.

Serve Much Territory.

These latter lines are among those embraced by the newly proposed transcontinental group. The combined lines would serve virtually the whole country west of the Mississippi river, covering a total trackage of approximately 38,500 miles.

Reports which predicted merger of the western lines were strengthened by knowledge that Arthur Curtiss James, large stockholdrer in the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, also owns much stock in the Southern Pacific and other western railroads, and is credited with controlling the Western Pacific.

Southern Pacific was expected to be calmed by Holden's appointment. Increased California mileage on the Western Pacific road has met with opposition from the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe as well as the Southern Pacific.

ROBINSON EXPECTED MAKE CAMPAIGN DRIVE THROUGH HEART OF THE SOUTHLAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)— A drive through the heart of the Solid South virtually has been decided upon by democratic chieftians as the first move in the campaign for Joe T. Robinson, vice presidential nominee.

Decision probably will be reached during the day although it is doubtful if any formal announcement will be forthcoming until after notification ceremonies for Governor Smith tomorrow.

The plan is understood to have the full approval of the Arkansas senator who upon his arrival here yesterday from Little Rock gave members of the democratic national committee an optimistic report on conditions in the Southern States.

The itinerary at present calls for addresses in eight Southern states with the space of three weeks from the time of the formal notification of the senator of his selection for the vice presidential position at Hot Springs, Ark., August 30.

After his notification the senator will go to Lonoke, Ark., his birthplace. He then will proceed to Texas for speeches in Dallas and Cisco, and from there is expected to swing through Tennessee, Georgia, Northern Florida, the Carolinas, Virginia and Kentucky.

From 10 to 14 speeches are contemplated during this tour.

Memphis, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Charlotte and Raleigh are known to have been suggested as likely points after the senator leaves Texas. It is regarded as possible that Mr. Robinson will deliver addresses in Chattanooga and Nashville after his swing up the coast through Virginia and on his way to Kentucky.

The senator has spent considerable time going over the proposed itinerary. He has indicated a desire to take the road as soon as formally notified.

The senator today had scheduled a conference with Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee, as well as several engagements at Democratic headquarters with other party leaders.

VENIZELOS PARTY WINS.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Results of Sunday's parliamentary elections, which gave the Republican parties 234 seats in the chamber of deputies against 16 to parties of Royalist sympathies, are regarded as blasting any hope that the Greek people by popular consent ever will return to a monarchical form of government. The election proved a great triumph for Premier Venizelos, who heads the Liberal party.

CHINESE BOB HAIR.

PEKING, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The municipal bureau of public safety has decreed Peking women under 30 years of age must bob their hair or pay a "degeneracy tax." The order becomes effective Sept. 1. It is meant to discourage the old Manchu style of hair dressing.
